—RESEARCHERS SAY POLONIUM MAY CAUSE CANCER—

Cigarette Smoke Radioactive

Boston (AP)—Two Harvard researchers said Thursday they have found a radioactive element in cigarette smoke which may be a cause of lung cancer.

Drs. Edward P. Radford and Vilma R. Hunt of the Harvard School of Public Health, described their report as the first to suggest that radionuclides in tobacco are involved in the production of lung cancer.

While it has been shown that ionizing radiation can produce cancer in man, Radford said, "We cannot say at this time that we have proven that radioactivity is a cause of lung cancer."

Found Traces
Radford and Mrs. Hunt said they found traces of the element polonium in tobacco. They determined that polonium attaches itself to smoke particles and is carried into the bronchial tubes and lungs. "Polonium may constitute a significant initiator of neoplasia (abnormal growth) in the bronchial epithelium (lining) of a cigarette smoker," their report said.

Radford told a news conference that he and Mrs. Hunt are continuing their research in an effort to determine "the role polonium may play as a cancer producer."

A conclusive test, Radford said, would be to remove polonium from cigarettes and see what effect, if any, it would have on the incidence of lung cancer among smokers.

Separating polonium from the smoke would be a nearly impossible task, Radford said. Therefore, he said, the only effective filter would be one that removed all the smoke, leaving the smoker to inhale warm air.

More Practical
It would probably be more practical to grow tobacco that would absorb little or no polonium from the soil, he added. He said the U.S. surgeon general's committee on smoking which issued its report last week, had received a report on research being done on polonium. It was mentioned in the report as an area in which more research was necessary.

The committee report stated: "Cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action."

Check Others
Radford said he and Mrs. Hunt also plan to check cigar and pipe smoke. They don't expect to find any significant difference in the amount of polonium.

The difference, he said, is that "most pipe and cigar smokers don't inhale." The non-smoker who finds himself in a smoke-filled room has little to worry about. The smoke in the air contains polonium, Radford said, but it is diluted millions of times.

Differences
Radford and Mrs. Hunt found in autopsies on seven cancer victims, that there were significant differences in the amount of polonium present between the five smokers and two non-smokers.

The concentration of polonium in lung tissue was five times greater in the five smokers, Radford said.

Further research by the two scientists showed that a man smoking two packs of cigarettes a day may receive a radiation dose from polonium at least seven times and "perhaps much more," than the normal radiation exposure of non-smokers.

Four Brands
They used four regular size American brands of cigarettes purchased in normal retail outlets, Radford said. Two were filter brands, two were not. There was little difference between the filter and non-filter cigarettes, he added.

There is also evidence, Radford continued, that Polonium is absorbed into the circulation of smokers.

The polonium content of the urine of smokers was six times higher than that of non-smokers, he said.

Elevated
This would suggest, he said, "That the polonium content of the soft tissues of the body may be significantly elevated in smokers."

Polonium is present in all green plants.

Other organs, such as the intestinal wall, do not get the intense exposure to the radioactive element when one eats greens, Radford said, as the lungs get when a person inhales smoke from burning tobacco or, for that matter, burning leaves.

Asked if smoking is injurious to human health, Radford, a lifetime non-smoker as is Mrs. Hunt, replied: "No question about it."

Civil Rights Unit Hears Pep Talk

By NANCY RAY
Star Staff Writer

Kansas' civil rights director gave members of the Nebraska Governor's Human Relations Commission a pep talk Thursday on how to effectively fight discrimination despite lack of strong legislation, funds and staff.

Carl W. Glatt, executive director of the Kansas Civil Rights Commission, told the group that "what is going to happen tomorrow in civil rights is beyond our control. This thing is explosive, and incidents can happen anywhere if the 'good people' aren't doing anything about it."

"Prejudice is an institution in the United States," Glatt stressed, "not just a happenstance."

North 'Just as Cruel'

Discrimination is not restricted to Birmingham or New Orleans, he noted. "It is a general situation, and the 'northern system' of unthinking discrimination in employment, housing and opportunity is just as cruel as the discrimination in Birmingham."

Discrimination cripples the individual, and is contagious because it destroys the incentive to achieve, by relegating members of minorities to menial jobs, the Kansas man said. "In doing this, discrimination is crippling our country."

He described civil rights organizations in Kansas as growing in number and vigor, but noted that of the six mayor's committees on civil rights, "two are frauds" and "fronts to keep the lid on things."

If organized groups are not doing the job, he suggested, voluntary groups should be formed to do the work.

The director stressed the effectiveness of a "positive approach" in combating discrimination. "Show that the community is against discrimination, and individuals practicing discrimination will cease."

Pressure—Not Threats

Positive pressure rather than threats was the method he described as he reviewed progress in his state. "Weak laws can be effective, even without enforcement clauses, because they can bring about voluntary compliance because 'it's the law.'"

He cited instances of advances in fair employment brought about through conferences, investigation and education, and not through the courts.

Discrimination "is a part of us and of our lives," he explained, "and no law, no CORE group, no NAACP action can do the job alone. They need the backing of the community."

Policy Scored

He scored the policy of "confinement and containment" in minority housing, and also the failure of professional educators to teach democracy and inter-group relations.

"The rock of prejudice will remain until it is disintegrated by the concerted efforts of all the people, at the urging of groups like yours," he told the commission members.

Credit Case Taken To U.S. High Court

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

General Motors Acceptance Corporation Thursday appealed a State Supreme Court time-sales decision to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Effect of the state court's decision was to "entrap" all persons who entered into time-sales contracts in accordance with the language required by the 1959 installment sales act, GMAC's notice of appeal stated.

The notice points to two federal constitutional questions, both arising out of the penalties applied to invalid installment sales agreements by the state court.

At issue, GMAC said, is the due process clause of the 14th Amendment and the constitutional prohibition in Article I, Section 10 against laws impairing the obligation of contracts.

1st Week In March
Indications were that GMAC would not pursue the case in the federal tribunal if the State Supreme Court upholds the penalty reduction bills enacted by the 1963 special legislative session. They will be heard the first week in March.

GMAC has been granted 60 days in order to petition for a writ of certiorari, seeking entry into the U.S. court, attorney Charles Reed of Omaha told The Star by telephone.

The state court last June threw out the 1959 Nebraska installment sales act as unconstitutional, then applied against invalid time-sales agreements the penalty provisions of the 1941 installment loan act.

These penalties called for forfeiture of principal and or merchandise, interest and charges. The GMAC case, GMAC vs. Donald E. Mackrill of Scottsbluff, was decided July 16. GMAC later unsuccessfully appealed for a rehearing of the case.

GMAC contended that "persons of ordinary intelligence" would not have understood the 1941 loan act penalty to be applicable to contracts written under the 1959 sales act.

"Application of the act of 1941 to transactions made in the form required by the sales act of 1959 prior to the holding of (its) invalidity violates the due process clause of the 14th Amendment," GMAC stated.

Motion For Rehearing
GMAC raised the federal questions in its motion for a rehearing filed with the State Supreme Court last Aug. 5. At that time, GMAC asked the court to apply its decision only prospectively as the Arkansas State Supreme Court did in a 1952 credit sales case. In that event, the decision would only have applied to contracts enacted after the court's ruling.

In a nutshell, GMAC contended: "The rule of law which this court applied retroactively so as to forfeit appellee's (GMAC) property rights was, in the light of the statutes of Nebraska and this court's prior decisions, so vague, indefinite, uncertain and unanticipated that persons of ordinary intelligence could not have been expected to know of its existence, so that to apply such rule retroactively to forfeit appellee's property was arbitrary and capricious and violative of the due process clause of the 14th Amendment of the Constitution of the U.S."

Foundation To Receive $1.3 Million
Spokane, Wash. (AP)—The University of Nebraska Foundation will eventually receive the bulk of a $1.3 million estate, under terms of a will filed Thursday.

Bertha S. Little, who died Sept. 5, left her estate in the form of a trust for her husband, with the exception of a few small bequests. Upon the death of her husband, former Spokane County Commissioner John T. Little, the trust assets will go to the Foundation. Mrs. Little was the widow of Dr. A. C. Stokes, then head of the University of Nebraska Medical School.

The inventory showed her separate property value as $1,304,170, the bulk in stocks and bonds, and community property of $17,000.

HAPPIER DAYS

Consul Frederick Picard meets Sheikh Abdullah Sulaiman el-Harthi, head of the Arab Association in Zanzibar, at a reception before the new country was torn by revolt. Mrs. Picard is at her husband's left.

Picard 'Young Man With The Answers'

By GENE BUDIG
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York — His mother calls him "a mediator."

Neighbors refer to him as "a young man with the right answers."

Frederick Picard will have to be both.

As U.S. consul to revolt-racked Zanzibar, he faces challenge, danger and arrest.

Several days ago, Americans on the island, including Picard's wife and three children, were evacuated to nearby Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika.

Only the Nebraskan and the U.S. Embassy third secretary remained.

Their arrest at gunpoint Thursday came only a few hours after Mrs. Margaret Picard commented, "Fritz will be okay. He seems to thrive on challenge. He always has."

She echoed her sentiments again Thursday night.

Mrs. Picard said her son "hoped there would be no trouble in the transition," referring to Zanzibar's recently granted independence from Britain.

'Proper Background'
"I am sure that Fritz will do the right things over there," Mrs. Picard added. "He has the proper background."

At the University of Nebraska, the consul graduated with distinction.

He received a fellowship to the Fletcher School of Diplomacy at Harvard University and later studied in Australia on a Fulbright scholarship.

Picard has been in the foreign diplomatic service in Southern Rhodesia, Iran and Zanzibar since 1954.

Mrs. Linda Osterman of 5625 Lenox in Lincoln is a sister of the consul.

Canal Spat Stirs Domestic Tiff

... TREATY BECOMES POLITICAL ISSUE IN PANAMA

Panama (AP)—A domestic political dispute shaped up Thursday over Panama's demand for a new Canal Zone treaty and the U.S. government's stand for discussion, not negotiation, of issues affecting the relationship of the two nations.

At the same time high sources in American and Panamanian official quarters said there was a glimmer of hope for a formula that might reopen the door.

Chairman Manuel Trucco of the joint subcommittee operating under auspices of the Peace Commission of the Organization of American States conferred with President Roberto Chari. Foreign Minister Galileo Uulis of Panama took part in the conference.

There was no word as to Trucco's specific mission or the outcome.

Pressure
The president was under heavy pressure from civic, professional and business organizations to insist on negotiation of a new treaty that would give Panama eventual ownership of the strategic waterway.

On the other hand, some influential, conservative Panamanians called on Chari to restore relations now and bring up the matter of the canal later. This group appeared to be a distinct minority in the tumult about the 1903 pact that gave the United States perpetual rights over the Canal Zone.

Foes of Chari's administration injected the canal issue into campaigning for a general election May 10 with a statement accusing the government of backing down from its original firm stand for concessions from the United States.

This statement, issued by a seven-party opposition alliance backing the presidential candidacy of Juan de Arco Galindo, called for an agreement from the United States that the treaty will be negotiated.

U.S. Reaffirms Pledge To Discuss Problems

Washington (AP)—The United States reaffirmed Thursday its willingness to discuss all issues with Panama but, a senator reported, it will not do so "under pressure or threat of violence."

The reaffirmation of willingness to talk came from the White House shortly before Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., told newsmen that Secretary of State Dean Rusk has given assurances that this nation will not be pressured into action.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, met with newsmen after Rusk had briefed the committee on the Panamanian troubles which erupted into deadly turmoil a week ago.

Fulbright said Rusk reportedly said this country "is very willing to discuss any differences" with Panama—apparently including the Panamanian demand for revision of the 1903 treaty under which the United States operates and controls the Panama Canal and the Canal Zone.

President Nabs Geneva Native

... RAPS OUR ATTITUDE

Zanzibar (AP)—U.S. Consul Frederick P. Picard III was marched out of a Zanzibar hotel to an unknown place here Thursday with a gun in his back.

The incident followed a violent denunciation of the U.S. attitude to the new Republic of Zanzibar by President Abid Karume.

Karume, who had just returned from Dar Es Salaam where he had pleaded for assistance from the Tanganyika government, was apparently upset by the arrival here of four U.S. journalists.

Only Americans
In Washington, the State Department reported that Donald K. Peterson, another U.S. diplomat, also was arrested. Picard, 36-year-old charge d'affaires, and Peterson, 33, a third secretary, were the two remaining U.S. diplomats in the country's capital. They were believed under house arrest.

The four American newsmen were also reported held in their hotel rooms under guard.

The State Department said Picard is a native of Geneva, Neb., and Peterson a native of San Luis Obispo, Calif.

The rebel leader had apparently read in Dar Es Salaam dispatches filed by the journalists to their papers.

Journalists
The four journalists were John Nugent of Newsweek, William Smith of Time magazine, Robert Conley of the New York Times and Peter Rand of the New York Herald Tribune.

The four newsmen arrived in Zanzibar by dhow, an Indian Ocean sailboat.

Most of the foreign newsmen who have reached Zanzibar since the weekend revolt have managed to get ashore from dhows. Some even swam ashore.

Unofficial
The journalists have set up an unofficial press headquarters in the Zanzibar hotel.

When Karume got back from Dar Es Salaam he stormed into the hotel and singled out the four American journalists with allegations of illegal entry into Zanzibar.

The four were also accused of sending distorted cables overseas.

Karume, obviously livid with rage, ordered the four American journalists to be held under arrest in their hotel rooms and placed a 24-hour guard over them "particularly Nugent."

Why Not
When Picard arrived to try to defend the journalists Karoname turned on him shouting "why do you not recognize us?"

Karume arrived at the hotel with his foreign minister, Abdul Rahman Mohamed Babu, and an armed escort.

Karume, hammering a fist into the palm of his hand yelled at Picard: "You have interfered with our government."

Babu interposed: "Why waste time with these Americans? We have nothing to do with them."

House Arrest
Picard, who had tried to determine the status of Americans on the island—believed to be only himself, Peterson and the journalists—was told that all would be detained under house arrest.

Karume also shouted that the new government of Zanzibar had broken off whatever relations there remained with the United States and that he would let Picard know within 12 hours what would be the next move.

The State Department said first information on the arrest reached the American envoy in neighboring Tanganyika through a correspondent, presumably British, who witnessed the arrests.

Information
State Department Press Officer Richard I. Phillips said the department's information came from Ambassador William Leonhart, the U.S. envoy in Dar Es Salaam, the capital of Tanganyika.

It said the editor of the Tanganyika Standard telephoned Leonhart, and told the diplomat he had received a message from the Standard's correspondent in Zanzibar to the following effect:

Picard and Peterson were personally arrested by Abid Karume, and his foreign minister in the Zanzibar Hotel lobby.

The arrests were at 11:30 a.m. CST Thursday.

Lines Out
Ambassador Leonhart immediately sought to communicate with Picard in Zanzibar, but was informed that the telephone lines were "out until repaired."

Leonhart, Phillips said, is making the "strongest representation" through the British to assure the safety of the two diplomats and the four correspondents.

Picard telephoned Leonhart in Dar Es Salaam Thursday morning, presumably several hours before his arrest, and reported that the situation was improving in the city, where African rebels overthrew the predominantly Arab government on Jan. 12.

Leonhart, Phillips said, reported that, in addition to the protest through the British, he is also seeking to contact high officials of the Tanganyika government, to request that they use their good offices in assuring the safety of the Americans.

Glenn Trades Space For Race

Houston (UPI) — Senior astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., denied the promise of another flight into space, quit America's man-to-the-moon program Thursday to bid for an earth-bound job as U.S. senator from Ohio on the Democratic ticket.

Glenn, who rose to fame and was offered — but rejected — fortune as the nation's first orbiting astronaut 23 months ago, gave his resignation as a spaceman to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Then he packed his bags for the long air trip to Columbus, Ohio, to make the formal announcement Friday of his candidacy on the Democratic ticket for the seat held by Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young of Cleveland.

Illustrious

Thus ended the flying career of perhaps the nation's most illustrious flier since Charles A. Lindbergh, the "Lone Eagle," who spanned the Atlantic Ocean in a single-engine airplane nearly 37 years ago.

But John Glenn, who has never failed at anything, appeared assured of a continuing spot in the public eye in first "astro-politician."

International interest now centers on Ohio's Senate race. If Glenn wins the nomination, it could pit him against Rep. Robert Taft Jr., a member of one of the country's most prominent Republican families.

No Surprise

NASA's announcement of the astronaut's resignation came as no surprise, and it went straight to the point: "John H. Glenn Jr. today requested to be relieved of his assignment."

"The request has been granted," replied Robert R. Gilruth, director of NASA's manned spacecraft center at Houston. Space agency officials said the resignation "is effective immediately — today."

Informed sources said the balding, red-haired Marine reached his decision during a "quiet, contemplative weekend" at his home south of Houston this past week. But Glenn himself remained unavailable to reply personally to reports of his political future.

'First Love'

Even up to the resignation announcement, Glenn's "first love" was still space. He captured the imagination of the world by riding into the sky inside his "Friendship-7" Mercury capsule atop a silver Atlas rocket Feb. 20, 1962.

For four hours, the astronaut sped three times around the globe at speeds ranging up to 17,500 miles per hour. Glenn's goal had been to make a second flight into space in one of the nation's two present manned space-flight programs — the two-man, earth-orbiting project Gemini or the man-to-the-moon project Apollo. But age and his own fame worked against him.

43 In July

Glenn will be 43 years old next July. He would have been 44 before his first crack at a ride in the oft-delayed Gemini program, and he will be nearly 49 years old by the time America attempts its first manned landing on the moon.

In addition, Glenn is a national hero, a fact which, sources said, made space agency officials "extremely reluctant" to risk him on another of the dangerous voyages into space.

Kennedy Stressing Bond Of Friendship

... WITH INDONESIA

Tokyo (AP) — Expressing U.S. concern over the Malaysian crisis, Robert F. Kennedy headed Friday into a round of talks including a vital meeting with President Sukarno of Indonesia.

The attorney general made a point on his arrival Thursday of stressing a "bond of friendship with Indonesia," arch opponent of the Malaysian Federation of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah.

On a special trouble-shooting mission for President Johnson, Kennedy went right to work. He conferred until almost midnight with Howard P. Jones, U.S. ambassador to Indonesia, Edwin O. Reischauer, U.S. ambassador to Japan, and other American officials.

Kennedy's first official appointment Friday morning is with Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira at the foreign ministry. That will be followed by an audience with Emperor Hirohito. His first meeting with Sukarno is scheduled for 3 p.m. at the Imperial Hotel in downtown Tokyo.

In a brief arrival statement, Kennedy said he was looking forward to his meeting with Sukarno and wanted to discuss with him "the concern that the United States and other nations of the world have of the situation that now exists in the relationship between Malaysia and Indonesia."

"This is a matter that must be decided and determined and resolved by Asian countries, not by outsiders," he added.

That statement echoed the theme of a meeting last week in Manila between Sukarno and President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines. They spoke in a joint statement of "Asian solutions to Asian problems by Asian themselves."

Despite this approach, Kennedy is expected to make clear to the Indonesian president that the United States supports Malaysia and is unwilling to alter that stand merely to please Indonesia.

OKELLO REVEALS ROLE

... Strongman In Zanzibar's Revolution

Zanzibar (AP) — Self-styled Field Marshal John Okello said Thursday he is the strongman of Zanzibar's revolution and it was he who appointed Karume as president.

The 27-year-old rebel leader who claimed to have once interpreted dreams from Kenya's Mau Mau (anti-white terrorists) said he wanted "democracy and freedom" for Zanzibar.

Okello held his first news conference in the offices of the radio station, which was taken over as the new government's headquarters. A pile of .22 slugs was on the desk. Guards with pistols and rifles stood at his shoulder.

The stocky, powerfully built leader said he had no training for rebellion abroad. He denied reports he had been in Cuba or Peking.

Okello said he planned the overthrow of the sultan of Zanzibar with the help of a central committee of 14 followers.

Last Sunday when the sultan was overthrown he had 600 rebels under his command. They had been given only 14 days training in the bush, he said.

When they attacked the police armory they were armed with bows and arrows, knives and sticks, Okello declared.

The field marshal was wearing a black denim uniform and peaked police officer's cap as he told reporters of his past.

He said he was born in Lira, Uganda and for many years worked as a carpenter and glazier in Nairobi, Kenya.

He claimed he was a member of Mau Mau with the rank of brigadier in 1955. One of his tasks, he said, was to interpret dreams for Mau Mau leaders.

Okello said he came to Zanzibar five years ago and was branch secretary of the Afro-Shirazi Party in the neighboring island of Pemba. This is the party led by Karume.

He told newsmen he came to prominence because, "I liked politics and power." He said he did not know the leader of the Afro-Shirazi Party well.

"They know me now because they realize I have power," he said. "That is why they are my friends."

The field marshal claimed the new president and other former opposition politicians knew nothing about the revolution and he said he had not informed them because he was afraid they would have told the sultan's authorities.

"Karume did not know he was going to be president until I told him," said Okello.

SE Buffeted After Record Texas Snow

By The Associated Press

A wintry blast spread into southeastern states Thursday after dumping a record-breaking snowfall on Texas.

Dallas residents plowed through more than seven inches of snow, the heaviest fall in the history of the Weather Bureau which was set up in 1913.

Seven to nine inches of snow fell in southeastern Oklahoma and there were some local reports of a foot of snow. One to three inches were reported in northwest Louisiana and southwest Arkansas.

Some of the normally mild southeastern states had been hit by three snow storms and damaging sleet earlier this winter. The third storm about two weeks ago left millions of dollars in damage to communication lines and forest lands in Georgia alone.

A mixture of sleet and snow spread through northern and central Louisiana Thursday and into central portions of Mississippi and Alabama. Freezing rain, sleet or snow were predicted for northern Georgia and portions of the Carolinas Friday.

Traffic was snarled on some highways in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and two deaths in Dallas were attributed to the weather.

The Texas snow line extended from San Angelo in the west into Louisiana and Austin in central Texas north into Oklahoma.

TEAMSTERS WIN LONG FIGHT

... Get Nationwide Pact For 450,000 Workers

Chicago (AP) — The International Brotherhood of Teamsters climaxed a 30-year campaign Thursday with an agreement on the first nationwide contract, involving more than 400,000 drivers and helpers.

Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa hailed the pact, which he estimated would cost the nation's truckers an additional $300 million a year in wage costs, as a forerunner for national contracts in other industries.

The agreement provides a 28-cent per hour increase spread over three years, a $5 per week boost in health-welfare-pension benefits, improved vacations and a cost-of-living increase. It will expire March 31, 1967.

The agreement, reached early Thursday, averted a strike against a half dozen selected trucking firms which the union had scheduled for last midnight. Names of the companies to be struck in the event a settlement was not reached were not disclosed.

Hoffa termed the agreement the climax of 30 years of effort by himself "and a lot of other Teamsters" for a nationwide contract.

The stocky labor leader told a news conference he has always believed there should be a nationwide contract to promote the best interests of Teamsters.

He predicted the agreement would set the pattern for national contracts in many industries which do not now have them.

"This agreement is the most complicated contract ever worked out between a union and employers," Hoffa said. "It involves some 450,000 drivers and helpers and about 14,000 employers. These employers have varying operations and their union employees range from 2 to 23,000."

Although Hoffa estimated the agreement would cost the truckers an additional $300 million annually in labor costs, the American Trucking Assn. in Washington, representing the employers, said no estimate could be made until full details of the agreement are analyzed.

Effective Feb. 1

The contract, ratified Thursday afternoon by the Truckers' Executive Policy Committee, becomes effective Feb. 1. It still must be ratified by the Teamsters' membership and the Employers' State Labor Associations.

The agreement provides salary increases of 10 cents an hour the first year, 8 cents the second and 10 cents the third year. Pay scales now in effect range from $3.02 to $3.28 an hour.

The union's health-welfare fund will be increased $1 a week the first year, $1.50 the second and 50 cents the third year. The pension fund is to be increased $1 a week the first year and $1 the second.

Morrison Says NU's Budget Too Small

Friday, Jan. 17, 1964

The Lincoln Star

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer
Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison Thursday night told University of Nebraska Young Republicans that the University's budget will require a 20% boost each biennium to meet the institution's "minimum needs" in the future. Morrison said NU "didn't get as much of a budget (for

(the current biennium) as it should have." The governor urged students to continue their program of periodic visits to the campus with state senators. Fields 34 Questions Morrison looked into a scattering of Goldwater hats and sashes, and fielded 34 questions in which he was asked to defend everything from the federal income tax to Social Security and federal aid. On state issues, he said that he favors state aid to junior colleges "eventually," but not until Nebraska voters enact a constitutional amendment integrating institutions of higher education under a single board. Morrison said he opposes a broadened tax base at this time, but warned that "propaganda will not meet the needs of education 10 years from now unless we experience a completely unanticipated growth." "Would Stimulate Spending" Broadening the base today "would stimulate unwise government spending in some areas," he said. The governor said he opposes the movement to change the Unicameral into a partisan body. On politics, Morrison noted that he accepted the group's invitation to speak "not to make converts of you, not to propagandize you... but for the sole purpose of interchanging ideas with you." The governor said he hopes NU's Young Democrats follow the lead and invite Republican candidates to speak at their meetings. Raised As Republican Morrison said he was raised as a Republican, but changed parties during the depression because he believed the times demanded "a more imaginative approach."

Council Views Church-State Relations

By DAVE HENDRICKSON
Star Staff Writer
If Americans really believe in the separation of church and state, should the inscription "In God We Trust" be removed from coins? Should prayers continue to be said at the opening of congressional sessions? These were among many questions asked of members of a Lincoln Council of Churches panel Thursday night at a forum on church-state relations held at the Southminster EUB Church following the Council's annual business meeting. The Rev. William Haney, panel member and pastor of the First Christian Church, said that Americans need a religious principle that will allow toleration of all religious and non-religious views, a "guiding middle principle," as he called it. Inscriptions Justified Dr. Carl Davidson, panel moderator, said that the Supreme Court has decided that our religious coin inscriptions and prayers in Congress are justified because Americans are a religious people.

The Rev. Richard Englund, panel member and pastor of the First Lutheran Church, was asked for his opinion on Sunday closing laws. Englund said he had not quite made up his mind, but said he opposed Sunday closing laws that were passed merely to protect Protestant church worship. On the other hand, he said that he might favor such laws if he were convinced that they aided the spiritual welfare of the people.

'Alliance Not Meeting Expectations'

Dr. Norman R. Stewart, a University of Nebraska assistant professor of geography, said the Alliance for Progress program is not now living up to expectations. He spoke Thursday night at the League of Women Voters January meeting. Dr. Stewart said, "We are probably expecting too much out of this program." "The alliance was President Kennedy's ideological weapon against Communist propaganda in the Latin America countries," Dr. Stewart added. "One of the problems of the alliance is that it has not benefited the peoples of Latin America countries." We will possibly have to wait a few years for some of the Alliance for Progress projects and programs to pay off," Dr. Stewart said. Latin America is well-endowed with natural resources, but has had little pressure to exploit them, he said. Among some of the resources, Dr. Stewart said, are iron ore, petroleum products, forests and the most important—productive land. Not one of the nations has achieved an economic balance, even after 150 years of independence, Dr. Stewart said. The countries are operating under a colony type of economy—still in the same role as when they were colonized, he said. "Latin American countries have been dominated by outside influences for 150 years,"

Dr. Stewart said, and added, "Many export prices are regulated by countries other than in Latin America." The force behind the economic development in Latin America is the desire to get out from under the dependence on other countries, Dr. Stewart said.

Somalia And Ethiopia Trade Charges Of Border Violation

Mogadishu, Somalia. (UPI)—The Somalia government Thursday charged that Ethiopian fighter planes attacked and destroyed two Somalia police posts on the border Wednesday. In Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian Foreign Ministry accused Somalia planes and bandits of repeated violations of Ethiopia's territory during the past week. It said that 58 persons were killed in one clash between bandits and police. A communique issued by the Somalia Foreign Ministry made no mention of Somali casualties in what was denounced as "this armed aggression and violation of national territory." Note of Protest It said the Ethiopian ambassador was summoned to the Foreign Ministry and handed a note of protest which warned that Ethiopia would be held responsible for any consequence of the air attacks. The communique said three Ethiopian fighters attacked the Somali police border posts at Gura Gionne and El Meghet. The first attack came at 8 a.m. and the planes repeatedly flew over the scene, firing on the posts until 1 p.m., the communique said. Police Attacked A spokesman for the Ethiopian Foreign Ministry said that armed raiders from Somalia attacked a police station last Sunday and a police station on Tuesday. He reported 15 Ethiopians were killed in the attack on the convoy while 43 of the bandits were tracked down and killed by Ethiopian security forces. He refused to disclose whether there were any casualties in the attack on the police station. The spokesman also charged that Somali planes violated Ethiopian air space last week. He said Ethiopia would take the "necessary action" if Somalia continued to encourage acts of banditry or continued violations of its air space.

ICC Okays Parcel Post Rate Increase

Washington (AP)—The Post Office Department won Interstate Commerce Commission approval Thursday for a substantial increase in parcel post mailing rates. The increase averages 13.1% above the present rates, which have been in effect four years. It also would apply to catalog mailings. It is now up to the Post Office Department—faced with rising parcel post deficits—to decide when the rates shall take effect. The ICC said the proposed rates would promote service to the public. More than that, the commission said, they would insure that parcel post pays its own way, as required by law. Parcel post revenue is required to come within 4 per cent of its cost—above or below. The postmaster general has authority under the law to change parcel post rates when he sees fit, but must obtain ICC approval of any such change.

Teagarden Made First Appearance In Chappell Theater 45 Years Ago

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—Jazz trombonist Jack Teagarden, who was found dead Wednesday, got his start in an old, silent movie house in Chappell, Neb. His mother, Mrs. Helen Teagarden, 74, recalled she played with him at his first public appearance and at two of his last. "The beginning," she said, was in the Chappell movie house. "I played the piano there. Jack played his trombone. He was 13 then, 45 years ago." She played with him twice last year. "I went up to see him at the Monterey, Calif., Jazz Festival last year. He insisted I do a few numbers for the audience." Later in the year, during a Miami date, she said she suggested they play one of the tunes he played as a child, "Leader's March." "I don't think I can remember it, Mom," she quoted him as saying. "Just do the best you can, Jack. I told him," said Mrs. Teagarden. "I'll cover up your mistakes." More Colorful Papers Foreseen Omaha (AP)—A printing company executive predicted the newspaper of the future will be much more colorful. Royce Kent, superintendent of Mid-West Press in Omaha, said new processes will make color easier and quicker to produce and more economical. Another trend in newspapering will be faster automation of the printing process, he said. Although newspapers have been slow to automate in the past, unions now are accepting the change, Kent said. The International Typographical Union has a center at its headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., at which members can train to operate new equipment.

Cyprus Okays U.N. Observer

United Nations, N.Y. (UPI)—Cyprus Thursday accepted United Nations Secretary General Thant's proposal to send a U.N. observer to the strife-torn island to observe the truce between the Greek and Turkish population and to recommend possible further peace-keeping action by the world organization. Cyprus Ambassador Zenon Rossides told newsmen after a 20-minute call on Thant that his government was "happy" to receive Indian Lt. Gen. P. S. Gyani, who was expected to leave the Gaza U.N. Middle East Headquarters for Nicosia Thursday night. At the same time, Thant announced he was sending one of his top aides, Jose Rolz Bennett of Guatemala, to London to consult with the foreign ministers of Greece, Turkey, Cyprus and Britain on what course the United Nations should follow in the island crisis.

Government Ills And Cures

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Once again, the Nebraska Tax Research Council has stirred the public thought with programs and people of interest. Meeting in Omaha, the group heard from Dr. John F. Sly, nationally known student of taxation and Princeton University emeritus professor of politics. He told his audience that Nebraska is today making fewer sacrifices through payment of taxes than was the case 10 years ago.

In 1953, he noted, Nebraska ranked 27th among all states in tax sacrifice as measured against per capita personal income. By 1957, he said, Nebraska's ranking had dropped to 32nd and in 1962 was down to 35th. Thus, in terms of ability to pay, we are paying less today in taxes than we were 10 years ago. This is a fact that has long been known but one which is seldom appreciated by the public. It is a fact overwhelmed by the personal dislike of people for paying taxes and a fact that simply doesn't get the recognition it should receive. Dr. Sly advised that those interested in improving the tax income of government in Nebraska need to engage in the extensive education of the public.

In this he is correct and it is shown in one instance after another. At another point on the council program came the report of retiring President A. James Ebel of Lincoln. He urged that the council make further study in the field of productivity of government personnel.

In business, noted Ebel, "the forces of competition make it absolutely essential that there be no fat in any departmental budget," but in governmental units there is no competition. "If a budget for a governmental unit is cut," he said, "some of the services of the unit are cut. There is no attempt to accomplish the same amount of service with less money through the use of increased efficiency."

The retiring president went on to state that "to compound the problem, nowhere in government operation is there a premium placed on efficiency. If a department should achieve an unusual operation record and wind up the year with money left in the budget . . . the unused funds are turned back . . . and the next year's budgeting process starts on the basis of last year's performance. So the first-class administrator receives a double penalty."

What Ebel wants by way of government is what all people want—a government responsive to the will of the people and one that gives a dollar's worth of service for every tax dollar collected. He wants good, honest and efficient government and he will find no one who will disagree with him on this. Also, he wants those things done for the public good that need doing and that are demanded by the people.

However, the kind of government we all want will not be achieved without our looking at the facts. Is it a fact that government has no competition? It competes for the public's money and it has this public constantly breathing down its neck. Requests for funds from public agencies are much more highly scrutinized than requests for funds from departments of business and industry in private enterprise. If, to get money, a department head in private business had to go through what a department head in government must go through, chances are the fellow in private business would quit.

And what about efficiency in government? Government is not perfect but who or what is? It is our suspicion that government is a great deal more efficient than the average private business. What private businessmen ever saved envelopes from the incoming mail, cut them into squares and used them for scratch paper? We know a man in government who did this.

In fact, the examples of efficiency in government are endless and anyone who has closely watched the operation of government at any level has never failed to be impressed with the efficiency and dedication of that operation. When government is inefficient, it is because the public refuses to give it the funds it needs to become efficient.

City and county government are inefficient in current operations in outmoded physical plants but will the public provide funds for new quarters? We will see at the next election. If we are ever to get the kind of government we want, it will not be by eating away at what we have with generalities that cannot be substantiated. What we need is not destructive, but constructive criticism. What we need to know is not how poor a job public officials are doing, but rather, what can be done to assist them and how we go about providing it.

The real fact is that private business and industry also has its fat, its people sitting around with nothing to do, help that is waiting at the door at 4:45 p.m. to rush home at 5 p.m., executives making work and drawing exorbitant salaries and on down the line. We hurt government and ultimately our own best interest when we paint a picture of government that is untrue and set for it standards that really do not even exist.

A Second Canal Is In Prospect

WASHINGTON—Long before the current trouble in the Canal Zone, Rep. Dan Flood, D-Pa., introduced a resolution calling for an Inter-Oceanic Commission to study a new alternative canal paralleling the Panama Canal.

Flood contemplated the time when political unrest would make things difficult in Panama, also the fact that the present canal is both overloaded and too small for big U.S. airplane carriers.

What most people don't know is that the original canal bill as passed by the Senate called for the route to be through Nicaragua, not Panama. However, when the bill got to the House of Representatives, somebody listened to Panama and French lobbyists and the route was switched to Panama, with a $20,000,000 pay-off to Paris.

The French, led by De Lesseps, who dug the Suez Canal, had started to dig the Panama Canal but got hopelessly bogged down by mosquitoes, yellow fever, and the problem of blasting through a mountain range.

It was a secret lobby in the House of Representatives which stepped in to bail out the French by switching the route from Nicaragua to Panama.

Meanwhile, the United States still has a treaty with Nicaragua, negotiated by William Jennings Bryan when secretary of state giving us a 99-year lease on a sea level canal route through the San Juan River and Lake Nicaragua which would be a little longer than the present canal through Panama but cheaper to build.

Says Congressman Flood: "What I want is an independent study of all the canal routes, not one by the bureaucrats and the Army Engineers who have been affirming each other's findings for the past dozen or so years."

Barry Goldwater's office has been flooded with mail complaining about his profanity. Apparently the American public doesn't like to hear a man who's running for president, or for that matter any man in high office, swear on radio or television. As a result, the protests have been what one friend described as "fantastic."

Goldwater's first bit of profanity took place when he made his announcement in Phoenix that he was going to run for president. During his press conference he was surprised by an overhead "boom"—a TV microphone which is swung over the speaker's head in order to pick up his words.

"What the hell's that?" boomed Barry.

This went out over the airways.

Later when Goldwater flew to New Hampshire and got off the plane, he was greeted by Sen. Norris Cotton, his local campaign manager, who said, "Barry, how are you feeling?"

"Fine," replied the man who would be president, "but I'd sure like to get rid of this G— D— cold."

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Mona And The Pink-Eyed Mouse

By MONA B. PARKER

It's that time of year, the Bertrand Herald reminds, when one has gotten over one spending spree, only to be greeted by another. It is known as "1040-time."

And the give-and-take has reversed itself. Instead of receiving from a fat, jolly fellow with a long white beard, it's now time to start paying off the grim, slim chap with the short gray chin whiskers.

W. W. Williams of the Chester Herald says that "that look-a-he-a-d-to-spring look" is bothering a certain member of his family who can't seem to focus in that direction "on account of a wintry looking back to where the money went in December and where it's going in January."

It's bad enough, struggling with year-end reports and tax forms and figures, but consider the problem of Jack Lough of the Albion News. For several days, aided by his wife, he struggled along but nothing seemed to come out right. Finally he made the startling discovery that two identical columns of figures added up to two different totals on the adding machine.

Wife Helen is ready to chuck automation and settle for a nice quiet island where they can live on bananas and coconuts. And she has a crazy, mixed-up adding machine for sale to help finance their one-way trip.

"How are you managing the tax payments at your house?" asks the Oxford Standard. "At ours, we're using the lay-away plan."

Bob Morris of the Wymore Arbor-Stat discusses a whole new field for taxation, and just about the only one left. This is the air we breathe.

He says not long ago a metropolitan area was considering a special tax for civic improvements. Oppo-

They come rough and tough in Colorado, even the old ladies. A little Nebraska moisture doesn't mean much to anyone used to what the mountain storms have to offer. In Holdrege recently, snow piled high on all sides, two elderly women from the neighboring state drove into the park, unloaded picnic equipment, tethered their cat to the leg of the table and sat down to enjoy a brisk meal out of doors.

nents made a list of special taxes already levied and the total was an amazing 17 special taxes.

At such time as they get around to taxing the oxygen that surrounds us, Mr. Morris says the old saying, "All you gotta do is pay taxes and die," will have to change the "and" to an "or."

On the more cheerful side, the Comstock News is proud of the fact that Comstock must be one of the very few remaining towns that still offers a good cup of coffee for a nickel. Which is quite a bit, the News points out, when one considers that a cafe has to furnish the coffee bean, cream and sugar, make several trips in serving the coffee, and finally wash the cup and spoon.

Bill Barnes is convinced that the main stumbling block to progress in the smaller communities is the hesitation to bring problems out in the open where town and country folk alike can talk them over together and seek the answers that are the best for the most people. He says he isn't too smart, but can see local possibilities of great benefit.

"Believe me, these things are being accomplished elsewhere. The foundation is right here in the Hay Springs community. All that is needed is some unselfish, enthusiastic farm and town builders—builders and developers of what God has already given us to work with."

And finally, there's a little girl named "Mona Mayberry"—a very pretty first name—who lives three miles west of South Sioux City. Her father caught an unusual pet for her and she feeds it corn, oatmeal and bread.

It is a wild buckskin-colored mouse and it has pink eyes.

Tough Task

Alexandria, Neb.

Panama, illegitimate, deserving nothing, has received much. We should withdraw recognition.

Colombia, wronged, has received nothing.

We should buy the Canal Zone from Colombia, paying what would have been a fair price in 1903, plus compound interest on that sum to the present date, plus an added amount as a sort of penalty for our wrong-doing.

It's a tough task facing President Johnson.

RICHARD DILL

Adapted To Area

Newark, N.J.

In western states where the highest highway death rates occur, the buyers have to accept the glamorized models now speeded out by the millions. Thus a car that somehow may do fair on the slick roads of New York or New Jersey becomes a death-dealing device when used in Montana, Texas, Oregon. Year after year, it is the same story, yet they blame the drivers and numerical speed.

Remedies may be applied in all states, but the basic one is overlooked. There should be a demand in rugged road states for cars that are much more designed for safer features. We westerners should buy cars that can be practical on the strangely twisted roads. We should realize that in a space age, adaptations to use are paramount.

Statistics this year will show why Rhode Island invariably gets ahead while hapless South Dakota edges in behind the unenviable Nebraska.

TV Repairs

As a technician in the electronics industry, I note with interest that the TV people are once again trying to license TV repairmen.

The TV segment of the industry, all the way from the manufacturer to the back-alley part-timer, has long been a pain in the neck to the rest of us. Our chief trouble has been complaints from the owners of poorly designed and badly serviced TV sets that are incapable of working properly in the vicinity of police, taxicab, industrial, amateur and other transmitters being used in these services. Running a close second is the problem of TV sets causing interference to the receivers in these other services.

Some years ago, the FCC found it necessary to put into effect controls designed to alleviate some of the problems. When that happened, the TV repairmen, hoping to capitalize on the situation, began to promote local licensing, knowing full well that no city in the U.S. can afford to maintain a staff capable of qualified technical supervision.

The true purpose of local licensing, as proven time after time in other cities, is to protect the price-fixers, the parts-kickers, and the tubelaster racketeers who make up a good 80% of the TV repairmen. Proof of this contention lies in the almost fanatical opposition by TV men to using the FCC's second-class radiotelephone license as the criterion of competence. They conveniently "forget" that this license is based on the lowest level of competence recognized as equipment capable of causing interference.

For a prime example of the interference that can be caused by television sets, I direct attention to the county sheriff—except in Omaha, which uses special equipment. A survey made at the Sheriff's Association meeting in St. Paul recently revealed that every sheriff at the meeting was having trouble with interference to his two-way radio, to some degree.

The worst case to my knowledge is Sheriff Karpnopp in Lincoln. He was forced to listen to TV sound for hours at a time, several times a week, causing a major annoyance, at times disrupting communications. I ran this down personally and found the cause to be a TV set about half a block away from Sheriff Karpnopp's base station. The technical cause was omission of parts from the TV set by the manufacturer. An omission which cost the TV owner $11.50 to do something which could have been done on the assembly line for less than a dollar.

Like most technicians, I favor licensing of TV repairmen, if done properly. However, my experience and observation show that local licensing is an expensive luxury that fails because of a combination of political considerations and prohibitive expense of maintaining qualified inspection.

Since there is already an existing system which has a level consistent with TV repairs, I would suggest consideration in both Omaha and Lincoln of an ordinance requiring that TV men possess a second-class radiotelephone license from the FCC before opening the back of a TV set for pay.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"I was nearly going to say 'This won't hurt,' Eric—For the moment I'd forgotten you're a dentist yourself."

The Blair House

Washington's notable Blair house, lately refurbished, is being used as the guest house for Italy's President Segni, which is to say, it is back at the center of high politics again.

It will be recalled that President Truman occupied the house while the White House was being rebuilt.

From now on it will house visiting dignitaries.

The Blair house derives its name from a one-time Kentucky family which scaled its way toward the political top by way of Missouri. Frank Blair was active in the Jackson administration. He and young Frank and Montgomery Blair wound up in St. Louis by the persuasiveness of their friend, Missouri's distinguished senator Thomas Hart Benton. They were political activists and soon were occupying elective and appointive posts in Missouri.

Benjamin Franklin

Today is the birth anniversary of Benjamin Franklin who arrived on this scene in 1706 and departed it in 1790.

Many others were born in 1706, but Franklin made such use of his allotted years that he is the only one of them who is readily remembered. He did it by being extraordinarily successful in any number of ways. He started out dirt poor, became a successful printer, a well remembered author, a contributor to science, a patriot, a philosopher, a statesman and a diplomat.

Europe called him the "first civilized American." He was a popular figure in France and a good enough negotiator in behalf of this struggling country that the British were continually confounded. He was also prominent in the formation of our new democratic republic which he thought was a fine thing, albeit he had some misgivings about whether it would work.

Time To Tell On Teamsters

Things may be uneasy on a national scale three years from now when the new Teamsters contract with truckers comes up for renewal. The contract is the first of its kind in labor-management relationships. It is a package proposition covering 400,000 workers and 400 locals with trucking firms across the nation.

A trucking company spokesman has said that the contract has some advantages for management in that it establishes uniform contract dates, working conditions, etc. This may be true and there isn't any doubt that Teamsters President James R. Hoffa believes the measure to be a milestone of achievement for his union.

It is possible that for both the union and management the new contract could be beneficial but it could be so and still be a monstrosity for the public. The danger lies in the possibility of disagreement at renewal time and the prospect of a nationwide strike against the trucking industry.

Perhaps the truckers and unions would just as soon have it this way but such a development would paralyze commerce and industry of the nation. It would bring about tremendous losses throughout our economy and work untold hardship on millions of people who had no direct connection at all with the trucking industry. Such fears are pool-pooled by Hoffa but they will be relieved or justified only after the next round of negotiations in the industry have been completed three years hence. These negotiations will demand a much greater sense of public responsibility on the part of both labor and management than has been characteristic of the past.

Congress Will Be Unchanged

WASHINGTON—State party organizations, both Democratic and Republican, find the present shape of things nationally a handicap to their efforts to improve their congressional representation.

President Johnson has coupled obedience to Sen. Harry Byrd's economies with liberal stands on social issues. The President's short-term objective is to hurry passage of a tax cut, but in the long run this obscures the party line with respect to broad policy and the fall campaign.

Democratic state leaders recognize that the President will name the vice-president on their ticket. At the moment he is playing the field in a rather impulsive manner, which also confuses them.

Republicans similarly cannot tell at this moment whether their candidates will be running with a clear-choice conservative, Sen. Barry Goldwater, or an alternative who can enter a reasonable claim for the center.

In some states—notably the South and Midwest—they seem to think they can do best with the senator. In others, important in size, they are demanding the latter. Both factions are nervous about the uncertainty and find their apprehensions reflected in the unwillingness of promising and attractive candidates to make the race.

In the end, of course, the kind of Congress elected will determine the kind of admin-

Morrison Will Order Shrubbery Screen For Statehouse Parking Lots

Gov. Frank Morrison promised Thursday to order a screen of shrubbery planted around state parking lots in the Statehouse area as a beautifying measure the same as the city requires of private parkings lots.

Morrison said he would issue the order after he and members of the Capitol Building Commission listened to a presentation of the development envisioned for downtown Lincoln by E. J. Faulkner, chairman of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Planning Commission.

Faulkner said much could be done to improve the appearance of 15th St. between the Capitol and the University of Nebraska.

He said an ornamental lighting district could be created and that the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. is agreeable to placing unsightly overhead telephone lines underground.

A civic center along 15th St. between the Capitol and the university is envisioned.

Capitol Building Superintendent Bob Newell asked if the zoning area around the Capitol could be extended from generally a half block to a block or two. Faulkner said this might be possible.

The city bars construction of buildings over 50 feet in height in this area as not to detract from the dominance of the Statehouse. Faulkner, however, noted the state is not bound by this.

City planning officials agreed to maintain liaison with the Capitol Building Commission and the Legislative Council Space Study Committee concerning planning around the Statehouse.

The construction of additional buildings for state agencies is expected during the next decade around the Statehouse.

State Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, vice chairman of the Legislative Council Space

Study Committee, attended the meeting.

Capitol Building Group Examines Air Conditioning Plans

The Capitol Building Commission Thursday went over final plans for the installation of air conditioning equipment in the Statehouse with engineers from the Leo A. Daly Co. of Omaha.

The estimated cost by Daly is between $867,900 and $1,075,900, depending on alternate plans adopted.

Alternates include $127,300 to include the tower, $28,700 for the east Senate chamber and lounge and $31,700 for the library and Supreme Court offices.

State Highway Engineer John Hossack, secretary of the Building Commission, said the commission probably won't include offices which now have air conditioning in the original installation of central air conditioning ducts.

The highway engineer said the commission hopes to act on the final plans soon so bids can be asked for the work in a few weeks.

He said the commission is hopeful the installation can be completed by the summer although the units probably will not be used throughout the Statehouse this year.

The Capitol would be air-conditioned through a pipeline connecting the air conditioning equipment at the Statehouse with a cooling plant at the University of Nebraska.

Era Comes To End

Ottawa (AP)—End of an era: The Royal Canadian Air Force says it is retiring its Lancaster bombers, which dropped 608,612 tons of bombs in 156,000 World War II sorties. One of its present-day nuclear bombers could do the same damage in 30 minutes.

'Future Role For LAFB Will Receive Every Consideration'

Washington (AP)—Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, assured Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., Thursday that every consideration will be given to a future role for the Lincoln (Neb.) Air Force Base.

Hruska met with LeMay to discuss the future of the base. He later said the 45-minute meeting was "very fruitful and frank," and that LeMay's attitude about the future of the installation was generally optimistic.

LeMay, the senator said, pointed out that the Air Force is phasing out its B47 planes and expects to have them out of the inventory by July, 1965. There are two B47 wings and an Atlas missile squadron at the base.

Hruska said LeMay told him he is impressed by the good condition of the Lincoln base and the fact the federal government has a large investment there.

The base is in a favorable position for further use in the range of its present activities and personnel in view of its condition and facilities, the general added.

Hruska said he was told a reorganization of the Strategic Air Command is under consideration.

The senator, who met with officials of the SAC headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base and with Lincoln base officials and civic leaders in Lincoln last Monday, said he also was impressed with the ease the Lincoln people have made.

In reply to a question by Hruska as to what the civil leaders could do to strengthen their case, LeMay said they could do nothing, that they already had made a good case and that sympathetic consideration would be given, Hruska added.

LeMay noted that his decision on a future role would be made on the basis of the mission of the Air Force and the security of the nation and that whatever decision he makes would be designed for the good of the country.

He added if the Lincoln base meets these criteria and it now seems to be well up on the list of meeting them, there will be an important future role for the base.

State Proposes Pattern Giving Columbus Four Flights A Day

The State Aeronautics Department Thursday proposed a service pattern plan which would give Columbus four flights a day.

State Aeronautics Director James Sandstedt presented the plan to officials from the airport authorities in Columbus and Lincoln. Lincoln would get two additional flights a day under the plan without any disruption of present service.

Fred Eiche, a member of the Lincoln Airport Authority, said the Lincoln airport group wants to study the plan more thoroughly but "on the surface it looks like a pretty good solution."

Kansan Tells How Legislation Aids Civil Rights Struggle

The Governor's Commission on Human Rights Thursday received renewed impetus for its proposal to seek statutory authority and a working budget from the 1965 Legislature.

Carl Glatt, director of the Kansas Commission on Civil Rights, provided the additional spur in his explanations of what that state has done through legislation to help realize the rights to minority groups.

State Employee Given Probation In Larceny Case

A State Game Commission employee was placed on probation for 42 months by Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles Thursday on a charge of grand larceny.

Mrs. Sylvia A. Hunter, 27, of Rt. 3, had pleaded guilty to taking more than $100 from the office in which she worked between March 1, 1963, and Jan. 7, 1964.

According to Deputy County Atty. William Blue, Mrs. Hunter apparently had been handling money received for hunting permits.

Rev. Vance Named

Wymore — The Rev. Milford G. Vance, pastor of Blue Springs Evangelical United Brethren church, is the new president of the South Gage County Ministerial Association. Other officers: the Rev. E. E. Powell, Blue Springs, vice president and program committee chairman; Father T. H. Kampman, rector St. Luke's Episcopal, Wymore, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. M. Sheffel Pierce, co-chairman of the Nebraska commission's public relations committee, noted that it has been the group's long-standing intention to seek passage of legislation which would change its advisory capacity to one of an agency with authority.

Not Decided

He said it had not yet been decided whether the commission would recommend a single legislative package tying fair employment practices and fair housing laws into the request for a statutory civil rights commission.

Glatt said the Kansas Commission currently operates on an annual budget of $60,000. The commission employs four men who travel through the state, and two office girls.

He said he believes the current budget figure will be its top, and expects the cost possible will be reduced by approximately $2,000 for the coming year.

Not 'Great Rig'

"It doesn't have to be a great big commission," Glatt said, "and it takes only a reasonable amount of money."

He added he considers it a "small investment" when one considers the returns it brings.

Dr. Pierce noted that one commission member had stated at the group's initial meeting last year, "We can achieve our goals without legislation over a period of 100 years, but we can do it in one or two years if we have legislation."

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas heads the Legal Committee which is drafting proposed legislation.

Plan 'Sound'

Clarke said he thinks the cities and Frontier will go along with the plan because it is "so sound." Sandstedt said he hopes so.

They propose to extend a short Frontier run now between Denver, Colo., and North Platte, with an intermediate stop at Sidney. This route would be continued from North Platte to Columbus and then down to Lincoln and on to Omaha.

There would be a return run as well as two shuttle flights between Omaha and Columbus.

Opposed Central Plan

Lincoln and officials of other cities on Frontier's strong central Nebraska route had opposed including Columbus on that segment as a dogleg. They feel it would lengthen travel time and downgrade the route.

Sandstedt noted the plan would give Columbus one flight west daily, plus one to Lincoln and two to Omaha where passengers could make connections east or west.

Rep. Libonati's Retirement Stirs Talk About Syndicate

Chicago (U) — Rep. Roland V. Libonati, who may be the only congressman ever photographed with gang leader Al Capone, is quitting.

News that Libonati, 62, will retire at the end of his third term, had speculation rife Thursday that leaders of the crime syndicate want him out and someone else in.

The someone else, unless things go off on a totally unexpected tangent in Illinois' 7th district, will be Frank Annunzio, 50, operator of an employment bureau and former state director of labor under Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Deeply Hurt

Annunzio, long active in the rugged politics of the West Side, said the reports that his candidacy had to be cleared with the syndicate hurt him deeply. He said he was boosted by young Italian-Americans in the district.

"I don't want these youngsters to grow up thinking they have to know gangsters to get ahead in politics," he said.

Annunzio was selected Monday by the Seven Ward committee of the Downtown and Near West Side district for endorsement as Democratic organization choice for the nomination. The committee members include Mayor Richard J. Daley, and Rep. William L. Dawson.

Libonati told newsmen he was getting out of Washington because he is lonesome for his stamping grounds around the city hall and La Salle Street, and is worried about his wife's health.

"My wife has bronchial asthma. She has lost more than 40 pounds now, and the climate here (in Washington) is not good for her," he's only been able to spend from one to three weeks in Chicago for the last six years and, he said, "I don't see my friends or my sister. I want to get back home."

Libonati's district was represented in Congress for 46 years by Adolph Sabath, a Democrat who died in office. Sabath's successor, James S. Bowler, also died on the job—in 1958.

West Side

Libonati was until then a member of the Illinois legislature where he served for 22 years, part of it in the House and part in the Senate. He was a member of the Chicago group known as the West Side Bloc and denounced by the Chicago Crime Commission as inimical to anti-crime bills.

About the picture with Capone, the gangster's son, and Gabby Hartnett, former Cub catcher, taken at the Cubs ball park in the 1920s, Libonati explained: "I had just come in, and he (Capone) asked me to talk to his son, and I did. Gabby came over and gave him (Capone's son) a ball." The picture was widely publicized when Libonati ran for the legislature, but didn't keep him from winning.

Libonati was active for American Legion bills — he served in World War I — and anti-subversive measures.

Once he introduced a bill which would have required cuspidors in every public building.

Demo Bastion

Few people would deny that the 7th District is peculiarly a reliable Democratic bastion. Although it blankets some of the most expensive real estate in the world, including the Loop's skyscrapers and Grant Park, its voters live for the most part, west of the Chicago River in crowded tenement environment.

The 1st Ward is a part of it and John D'Arco formerly was its alderman. D'Arco, an insurance man, quit the council last year, and his Democratic heir-apparent, Anthony de Tolve, a legislator, withdrew as a candidate after newspapers noted that he is brother-in-law to Sam (Momo) Giancana, reputed Chicago Cosa Nostra leader.

Democratic powers of the ward, registered Michael Flo Riot, a Loop lawyer with connections they liked, who lives in Wilmette, as a resident of the Palmer House in the 1st Ward, and Flo Riot was elected. He resigned following an uproar over the maneuver.

Apparently Giancana's power status had some bearing in the De Tolve-Flo Riot affair.

Now, there are those who say Giancana didn't like Libonati because he merely voted in Congress, and didn't maneuver. There have been reports, also, that Giancana has been dumped by the mob, or pushed upstairs to inactive senior status.

Giancana doesn't talk about such things to people outside the family.

NU Coed Betrothed

Announcement of the betrothal of Miss Diane Gordon to Arlo William Biero of Davis, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Biero of Nebraska City, is being made this morning by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan S. Gordon of Hebron.

The wedding will be an event of June 21.

A student at the University of Nebraska, Miss Gordon is a member of Chi Omega sorority. Her fiancé is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Alpha Zeta and Gamma Sigma Delta honoraries. At present he is a graduate student in agricultural economics at the University of California.

Dear Abby

He Is One Of Thousands

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In plain words, how does a woman get a full-grown baby (her husband) to a dentist? I would hate to tell you how long I have been fighting this problem without success.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Your husband (like thousands of other "full-grown" babies) is terrified of the dentist's chair, but he's ashamed to admit it. You could make an appointment for "yourself" for a general check-up. Tell your husband you want him to go along and hold your hand for moral support. Once there, you could ask your dentist if he had

WHY GROW OLD?

Josephine Lowman

If you want to kill more than one figure fault with one exercise, I have a few for you to do.

1. Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor, slightly away from your sides. Raise both legs to a right angle position to your body. Separate your legs. Bring them together and lower them to the floor. Knees are stiff throughout this exercise. Continue.

This is a splendid abdominal exercise. It also firms the inner thighline which has a tendency to become flabby, even at an early age.

2. Lie on your left side. Swing your right leg backward as you reach forward with your right arm. Now swing your right leg forward as you swing your right arm backward. Continue with a smooth swing in each direction. Your arm and leg move in opposite directions. After a while turn on to your right side and swing your left arm and leg.

If you do this somewhat slowly, reaching in each direction as far as comfortable with your arm and leg, you will feel a wonderful stretch. This is a fine abdominal exercise and is slimming to the waistline. It is also easy to do, and relaxing.

3. Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting at your sides. Bend both knees up, and raise your head, trying to touch your nose to your knees. Return legs and head to the floor.

Try this carefully, because if you have long legs you might bump your nose. This is a fine abdominal exercise and also gives your neck, or chinline, a workout.

Suburbia Has Own Brand Of Fun

MEADOW LANE

Happiness just seems to spill from every doorway in suburbia — and it just may be due to the fact that there always is something going on — such as new neighbors moving in — bridge parties and neighborhood get-togethers.

And although they say that happiness is a warm puppy, there appears to be many variations — especially in suburbia. To mothers, happiness is escaping the measles; to the younger generation it is stealing cookies from the cookie jar without getting caught; and for fathers happiness means it's the neighbor's turn to take the children to the movies on Saturday afternoon.

And there just happens to be some very happy residents in Meadow Lane this week judging from all of the social activities taking place.

Meadow Lane residents bidding hearts, diamonds, spades and clubs last evening at the home of Mrs. Richard Kjaas were Mrs. John Reta, Mrs. Kenneth Durmann, Mrs. H. L. Graham, Mrs. Arthur Taylor, Mrs. Miriam Packett, Mrs. Esther Tracey and Mrs. A. L. Leeverson.

Also included on the evening agenda was a dessert supper.

Host and hostess at their Meadow Lane home last Saturday evening to several out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James R. Evans. Their dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Upton and daughter, Peggy, of McCool Junction, and Mr. and Mrs. Thurman McPherson and their two children,

Robert and Margaret of Tecumseh.

An expected guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Fleck and their children, Mike and Elizabeth, will be Mrs. Fleck's brother, Tom Clark of Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. Clark arrived in Lincoln on Wednesday and is currently the guest of another brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman.

Entertaining in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eschler at a bridge party last Saturday evening were Capt. and Mrs. Stan Toney.

Their guests for the evening included Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hill and Mr. and Eschler.

Mr. and Mrs. Eschler and their two children, Maria and Mike, will be departing Lincoln in the near future for their new home in Des Moines, Iowa.

Another farewell get-together, this time honoring Mrs. Eschler, was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Walker Jones.

Bidding farewell to their neighbor at the bridge party were Mrs. Bill Maly, Mrs. Loyal Paine, Mrs. Stan Toney, Mrs. Samuel Hill, Mrs. Samuel Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Eschler.

SKYLINE TERRACE

A new addition at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Wenzel is a baby girl, Donn Renee, who arrived Tuesday at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

The new arrival's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Shreiner and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wenzel of Beatrice.

Omaha guests at the home of Mrs. Don Little on Tuesday were Mrs. Quintin Ritzley and her son, Ross. Mrs. Ritzley and her son then returned to their home in Omaha that afternoon.

To Entertain

Alumnae members of Gamma Phi Beta sorority will honor the seniors of the active chapter at a brunch on Saturday morning. The 10:30 o'clock courtesy will be held at the home of Mrs. Melvin Johnson.

Engagement

The engagement of Miss Lynne Lavae Heinrichs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heinrichs of Davenport, to John Brian Batko, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Batko of Camp Douglas, Wis., has been announced by the bride-elect's parents.

The wedding will take place in April.

Miss Heinrichs is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of Gamma Phi Beta. Her fiancé is a graduate of Wisconsin State College and Institute of Technology. Both are residing in San Diego, where they are employed.

The Rockets we are ... The Rockets we are ... The Rockets we are the best!! We won't be beat ... We're better than all the rest ...

Tonight the mighty Rocket team is put to the test, but the old Rocket know-how will pull us through when the Rockets battle it out with the Links. Having been beaten once the Rockets are determined to come out on top ... Let's see everyone down at Pershing Municipal Auditorium to root for the Black and White. Game time is 6:15 for the reserve game and 8:00 for the varsity.

Cheers will be heard from the gymnasium and no one will be in classes after the bell rings. Naturally the students will be at the pep rally given today. There will be a skit in which many LN students will appear, boosting the morale of the student body to 100%.

At the last pep rally held before the Lincoln High game, the LN faculty gave the student body a rocket. Miss Schumard, clerical training teacher, presented it to Carrie Kulla. Carrie, first semester student council president, represented the student body in accepting the rocket. Miss Schumard commented, "Lincoln Northeast is truly the 'Home of The Rockets.'" The resting place of the rocket hasn't been decided as yet, but will be announced soon.

Along with the rocket a booster rocketman will represent Lincoln Northeast. The booster was drawn by Jerry Logan a junior at LN. The Journalism department sponsored the contest and the prize was a free Rocket yearbook.

Wrestlers showed the typical LN style by taking City-championship when they were from Lincoln High. Keep going boys ... Take state!!

It's Time To Test Your Play

B. Jay Becker

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are West, defending against Three Notrump, the bidding having been a no-trump by South (12 to 14 points) and three notrump by North. You lead the four of spades and South takes the king with the ace. South now plays the nine of spades. How do you defend?

♥ A J 8 7 5
♦ A 10
♣ Q 7 2

♠ J 7 5 4
♥ 9 6 3
♦ J 7
♣ A J 8 5

♠ A K Q J 9 3
♥ A J 8
♦ 10 8 7 4
♣ 10 8 7 4

♠ 7 6 5 2
♥ A 9 8 4 3
♦ A 9 5 3
♣ 10 8 7 4

1. It is reasonable to assume that South is not trying to commit suicide when he returns the nine of spades, and that his real purpose is to try to steal a trick. For his spade play to be right, he must have started with the A-Q-10-9. Furthermore, from his failure to attack hearts, he can be assumed to have the K-Q of that suit. If these assumptions are correct, it would be fatal to duck the spade, since South would then have nine tricks consisting of three spades, five hearts and a diamond.

The best defense is to take the spade and lead the jack of clubs, playing on the basis that declarer's hand looks something like this: ♠ A Q 10 9 ♥ K Q 2 ♦ Q 8 4 ♣ 10 6 3. Such a holding would be consistent with the bidding and South's play at trick two.

Note that it is necessary to lead the jack of clubs to defeat the contract. Any other club lead would give South a club stopper and hand him the contract. Note also that declarer is not credited with the king of clubs, because, if he had that card, he would presumably have played a club at trick two to assure the contract.

2. There is no chance of making the hand unless the diamonds are divided 4-4, so the best thing to do is to try to establish the nine of diamonds as the twelfth trick. Trump the heart lead in dummy, ruff a diamond, trump another heart, and ruff another diamond. Now trump the ace of hearts and ruff the third round of diamonds.

Draw trumps, enter dummy with a club, and cash the ace of diamonds, discarding a club. If both opponents follow to the ace of diamonds, you discard another club and congratulate yourself on making what was really a poor slam contract.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Taylor returned home last weekend after spending the holiday season in Los Angeles, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don E. Taylor and their sons, Tex and Gary.

Brides Book

Honoring a January bride-to-be last Sunday afternoon were Mrs. Don Sablin and Mrs. Richard Nannen who were hostesses in courtesy to Miss Virginia Mae Dolezal. The dessert and miscellaneous shower were held at the Union Loan and Savings party room.

Miss Dolezal, whose marriage to Donald Ray Masters will take place on Saturday evening, Jan. 18, also was honored at a party for which Mrs. Ronald Dolezal was hostess at her home on Friday, Jan. 10. Fifty guests were invited and presented a grocery shower to the bride-elect.

The daughter of Mrs. Harvey Roberts and of Stanley L. Dolezal of Dwight, the soon-to-be bride has chosen Mrs. William Masters as her matron of honor for the ceremony, which will be solemnized at 7 o'clock in the evening at Epworth Methodist Church. The bridesmaid will be Miss Kay Masters, and Mrs. Ronald Dolezal and Mrs. Myron White will be bridesmatrons.

William Masters will serve as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Chuck Hurt of Dwight, Donald Sablin, Richard Nannen, Jeffrey Powell, Ronald Dolezal, Myron White and Harvey Roberts, Jr.

Revealing plans for her approaching marriage is Miss Carol Crouse, whose betrothal to John Elliot was announced recently.

The wedding will be an event of Friday, Feb. 14, and the service will be solemnized at 7 o'clock in the evening at the United Campus Christian Fellowship at the University of Nebraska. Miss Carolyn Crouse will attend her sister as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Sandra Sexton and Miss Evelyn Peery.

Serving Mr. Elliott as best man will be Richard Kleckner.

A February bride-elect who was honored last Friday evening is Miss Lois Edwards, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Edwards, who will become the bride of W. Michael Anderson of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., on Saturday, Feb. 15.

In courtesy to the soon-to-be bride, Mrs. Fred Smith and Miss Dorothy Edwards were hostesses to a group of guests at a miscellaneous shower held in the parlors of the First Assembly of God Church.

The wedding of Miss Edwards and Mr. Anderson will take place at an 8 o'clock evening ceremony to be solemnized at the First Assembly of God Church.

Observe the gay Parisian: You will now be able to shop three minutes of strip tease for five francs ($1) at a strip tease supermarket planned for the sinful city.

You drop the five francs in the slot. A small window uncovers, giving a view of a stage with continuous, live strip tease. At the end of three minutes (like a long distance call) the curtain drops down again. Curses!

In Cincinnati, O., Max the star police dog of the force was turned loose on a running

Max, the flink, ignored the fugitive, put the bite on the cop.

His next appearance will be before the commission for un-officer-like conduct. Back to the fog belt for Max.

If you face the world with narrowed eyes, furrowed brow and a snarl, you are following the facial patterns passed down by your ancestors—the ones who lived in split-level caves.

This is reported by a British scientist. He has been looking at monkeys.

"Monkeys face strange external situations with furrowed brows, a penetrating stare and head-shaking and sniffs. It makes seeing and smelling easier and more acute.

"The nervous grin evolved from defensive biting movements."

Don't bite the man, child. Bite the banana.

Among the face cards of merry England, the rate of illegitimate children is one in 100. (If I read my history right, it used to be the other way around. Whither are we drifting?)

Anyway, among the ordinary folks, it's one in 16.

Goldwater Decision To Enter Nebraska Primary Announced

Washington (U)—Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater will enter the Nebraska presidential primary May 12, his office announced Thursday.

That brings to five the number of primaries Goldwater has decided to enter in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

Goldwater's press secretary, Tony Smith, said Nebraska senators Roman Hruska and Carl T. Curtis asked Goldwater to run in that state's primary.

Smith said Goldwater told them Thursday he will enter the race.

Smith said he does not know whether Goldwater will campaign in Nebraska. "It would depend on the situation elsewhere," he said.

Goldwater already had said he will be on the ballot in New Hampshire March 10, illinois April 14, Oregon May 15 and California June 2.

The senator also has said he probably will enter the District of Columbia's May 5 primary, and would like to run in the Maryland primary May 19.

"I would be tempted to do it if time will permit," he said.

Committee To Eye City's Air Pollution

An advisory committee appointed by Mayor Dean Peterson will study Lincoln's air pollution and recommend solutions for existing or future problems.

Committee members are Mrs. Helen Bosalis and John Hanson, City Council members; Norman Cromwell and Donald Pace, University of Nebraska faculty members; Glenn Bonacker, representing the Chamber of Commerce; George Lincoln, representing Associated Industries of Lincoln; Arlyss Spence, assistant City attorney; and L. A. Sanger, environmental health director of the City-County Health Department.

Sanger was named chairman and Miss Spence vice chairman at the committee's organizational meeting Thursday.

The group agreed to meet with a U.S. Public Health service regional representative at its next session for information on how other cities have approached air pollution control.

Ultimate Goal

Councilman Mason said an ultimate goal of the committee would be to recommend reasonable air pollution control ordinance to the mayor and City Council.

The committee was advised that the city might secure as view indicated Thursday.

Take temperatures, for instance: The mercury ranged from a low of 37 degrees below zero, recorded at Anselmo in January, to a sweltering 110 degrees, recorded at the Imperial airport in June.

Take rainfall: Skies unloosed torrents last June 23 and 24, and measurements of 13 to 16 inches of rain were common in the David City and Garrison areas.

Alinsworth, which receives just a little more than 20 inches of rain in an average year, measured more than 27 inches in 1963.

But Falls City, which has averaged nearly 35 inches per year over the long haul, got short changed by nearly nine inches last year in recording only 26.22 inches.

The facts, observations and recollections are contained in an annual summary prepared by state climatologist R. E. Myers.

Here are other Nebraska weather facts that provided conversational fodder in 1963:

The last freezing temperature (32 degrees) was recorded on May 23 last spring, and autumn's first freeze occurred on Sept. 29.

Scottsbluff experienced 186 freeze-free days, the longest growing season of record in that community.

Bridgeport recorded its lowest January temperature in 66 years when the mercury dipped to 35 below zero.

The June 24 rains dumped 16½ inches of water at a point two miles southeast of David City. In southeast Nebraska generally, three people drowned, more than 200 bridges were washed out and millions of dollars in crop and property damage resulted from the deluge.

Some northern areas in January recorded 22 consecutive days during which temperatures dipped below zero, the longest such period since 1936.

Omaha in December set a record with 12 consecutive sub-zero days.

By contrast, Franklin recorded 27 days in August during which the mercury topped 90 degrees.

Tornadoes were reported in April, May, June, July and

Inmate May Attend Rites For 4 Sons

Fort Madison, Iowa (AP)—A Penitentiary inmate who lost four of his children in a Council Bluffs fire Wednesday night will be permitted to attend their funeral.

Warden John Bennett said Thursday that Richard Allen, 34, will be sent to the funeral "if he wants to go, and I am sure he will want to."

Allen was taken to the penitentiary last week to begin serving a seven-year sentence for forgery.

Four of his five sons perished in the fire which broke out when Mrs. Allen, 23, was at a neighbor's house making a telephone call. The fifth son, Billy, 5 months, was rescued.

Services for the four boys, Erin, 5, Richard 4, Donald 2½, and Paul Allen, 1½, are pending. Mrs. Allen is in shock at a hospital.

Bennett said that inmates are permitted under certain circumstances to attend funerals.

Allen, who will be dressed in civilian clothes, will be accompanied by an officer.

The warden said that "so far Allen has not made a request" to go.

Charges Lodged In Robbery Try At Service Station

Marvin Edward Taylor, 22, of 1505 No. 27th, was bound over to the Lancaster District Court Thursday on charges of assault with intent to rob, and shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim.

The charges were filed in connection with the attempted robbery Saturday of the U-Save Service Station at 10th and J.

Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum set bond at $5,000.

According to police, Taylor pulled a gun on station attendant Donald Schleicher, fired a shot and fled when a car pulled into the station.

The average year-long temperature at 15 well distributed stations was 51.4 degrees, or 1.2 above normal.

Precipitation averaged below normal in most of the state. The average year-long total by areas:

Pasadena 16.97 inches, or 62 above normal.

North Central 20.52, or .53 above normal.

Central 20.58, or .50 below normal.

East Central 21.12, or 2.09 below normal.

Southwest 18.64, or .06 above normal.

South Central 19.22, or 3.06 below normal.

Southeast 27.27, or 1.91 below normal.

Fairbury received 32.76 inches of rain during the year, some four inches more than normal, to make it the wettest known community in Nebraska.

Other points receiving more than 30 inches during the year included Auburn, Nebraska City, Tecumseh and West Point.

Points receiving less than 15 inches for the entire year included Bridgeport 14.93, Chadron airport 12.33, station 10 miles northwest of Harrisburg 11.89.

Trio Eligible For Postmastership

Washington (AP)—The Civil Service Commission announced Thursday Edward W. Lechner, Muriel L. Sydow and Henry W. Hyde are eligible for the Grand Island, Neb., postmastership.

Any one of the three may be nominated by President Johnson, subject to Senate confirmation.

Lechner now is acting postmaster.

There were seven applicants for the $8,410-a-year job.

2 Dana Dorms Recommended For Tax Rolls

Blair (AP)—Washington County Assessor Earl Long says he plans to recommend that two dormitories at church-related Dana College, as well as some faculty housing units, be placed on the tax rolls.

A court test looms as likely if the county Board of Equalization accepts the recommendations.

Long said Dana College officials would bring a friendly suit if tax exemption is lost. He said the court case would be brought without animosity.

"We need to establish a principle once and for all," the assessor said.

Long is taking the position that the predominant use of the Dana College facilities is residential in character, and not educational.

The constitution permits tax exemption of privately-owned properties used exclusively for religious, charitable or educational purposes, but the attorney general's office has held that ownership alone, except in the case of government property is insufficient grounds for automatic exemption.

Long also reported he is planning to put part of the Washington County Fairgrounds on the tax rolls.

High Court Will Hear Obscenity Case Feb. 6

The constitutionality of obscenity statutes passed by the 1961 Legislature will be argued before the Nebraska Supreme Court Feb. 6.

Herman Jungclauss of Grand Island maintains the obscenity laws are in violation of Article I of the U.S. Constitution guaranteeing freedom of speech and the press.

He is appealing his conviction by a Hall District Court jury of violating the obscenity statutes by possession of lewd and obscene magazines and records for sale. Jungclauss was fined $250 and sentenced to three months in the Hall County jail on the two convictions.

Taken From Grocery

The magazines and records were confiscated in a Grand Island grocery last April which was owned by Jungclauss as a subsidiary firm.

The Supreme Court, on the same day, will also hear arguments in the appeal by two Lincoln cab companies from a refusal by the Nebraska Railway Commission to permit them to adjust rates.

They are the Yellow Cab Co. and Lincoln Cabs, Inc., doing business as Capital Cabs.

The cab companies wanted to lower rates for short trips but increase them for long

19th Annual Police School To Begin Monday

The 19th Annual Police Training School will begin Monday to "keep the police officers up to date on the ever-changing laws," Chief of Police Joseph T. Carroll announced.

The initial portion of the two-week school will deal with fundamentals of law enforcement and police techniques. This first week is primarily designed for the newer members of the force—the 38 officers who have been commissioned since September of 1962.

Speakers for the first week of "classes" will be senior officers who will cover such topics as patrol techniques, testifying in court, and defensive tactics (self defense in hand-to-hand fighting).

On Jan. 27th the second week of the school will begin, and will be attended by all officers.

The format for the second week includes lectures by FBI officials, attorneys,

Nation's Hottest Shooting College Team Stages Freeze

... DAVIDSON SHIES AWAY FROM ZONE; WINS 14TH STRAIGHT

Davidson, N.C. (AP) — The temperature dropped to 11 degrees at Richmond, Va., Wednesday night, but it was even colder inside the Richmond Arena.

Davidson, leading the country with a 56 per cent shooting accuracy figure, shot from the floor but once in the last 13 minutes as coach Lefty Driesell countered Richmond's zone defense with a stall.

"My boys were playing their third game in five nights, Barry Teague, who was fighting the flu for two days, was very tired out there and I didn't think my boys were playing especially well."

turn out. But we won, so I guess it turned out pretty good. "I play to win. Maybe we could have beaten them by 20 points, but Richmond shot very well in the first half and I didn't know that they wouldn't repeat in the second half."

A Refreshing Change
After a season of listening to football coaches talk of every opponent as a dangerous threat to their record, it is refreshing to hear Red McManus discuss basketball.

This idea among football coaches would appear to be a prerequisite for joining the Football Coaches of America Association. Every opponent, whether it is Texas or Doughnutville, has speedy backs, a big, quick line, and hits hard.

McManus' attitude on such topics as opponents does not follow the normal coaching attitude. The Creighton basketball boss says what he thinks in understandable terms. And such frankness is not easy to find in the coaching profession.

"This was a tough game to prepare for," McManus said the other night in talking about New Mexico State, the Bluejays' foe for the evening. "We knew they weren't a good team. How could I tell my players it would be a tough game when they knew that Drake had beaten the same team by 40 points the night before."

McManus freely admits his players wouldn't have been convinced it would be a tough game even had he told them so. But you would need an adding machine to count the number of coaches who would have tried it.

Tourney Berth Ahead?
McManus' current Creighton cage squad is a good one and the Bluejay coach knows it.

The Bluejays fell to a 14-13 record a year ago, a stumble that could be a major factor in keeping them out of the top 10 so far this season despite a 13-2 record.

And of those two losses, one came against No. 1 ranked UCLA and the other against Oklahoma City on a night when the tallest team in the country also hit at close to 50% on field goal attempts.

The Bluejays have several key games coming up after semester exams that will determine whether the Omaha school gets a bid to fill one of the three at-large berths in the NCAA Midwest Regional at Wichita.

Creighton has only four more home dates, including Oklahoma City Feb. 17. Other home games on the Bluejay slate are Marquette Thursday, Aquinas College Feb. 1 and Memphis State Feb. 5.

Northeast, Prep Present Big Challenge For Links

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer
There aren't many coaches who would relish swapping places with Lincoln High's Alden Johnson this weekend.

He's a man with BIG problems. The Links face Northeast (5-1) Friday night and top-ranked Creighton Prep (9-0) Saturday night.

At the heart of the matter is a problem which will plague the Links all season... that being how to cope with size.

Northeast's Bob Halin, 6-5 junior, enjoyed his best scoring night of the season (20 points) as Lincoln High earned a 65-63 decision in their first meeting.

Southeast's 6-3 Steve Bock and Westside's 6-4 John Buller scored 24 and 25 points, respectively, against the Links, whose tallest starter is 6-1 Frank Brill.

All of which points to trouble when Prep's 6-7 Wally Anderson comes to town Saturday night.

As if Anderson weren't enough to worry about, Prep coach Tom Brosnihan can call on the likes of Sam Buda (6-4).

JONES, CEBRUN LEAD SCORING

Charlie Jones and Harold Ceburn are the only Nebraska cagers averaging in double scoring figures as the Huskers go against Oklahoma City Saturday night at the NU Coliseum.

AL REJECTS FINLEY'S BID

Court Struggle Might Be Next

... THREATENS KC BOSS

New York (UPI)—Charles O. Finley, defiant to the last, said Thursday night he had "no alternative" but to go into court to find out whether the American League could restrain him from moving his ball club from Kansas City to Louisville.

The dynamic, white-haired owner of the Athletics said he stated his intentions to the American League's board of directors after they rejected his plan to move from Kansas City to Louisville by a 9-1 vote. "But they weren't fazed a bit."

Finley made his own pitch for the transfer okay at Thursday morning's session of the league's board of directors. He was followed into the meeting room by delegations from Kansas City and Louisville.

Then, at 5 p.m. (CST), Finley made a formal request to the league for the shift. The A.L. owners went into an executive session that lasted almost two hours and when they came out they issued their ultimatum to the A's owner.

Not Drastic
The American League officials agreed that the action they took was "not unduly drastic."

Zanville Kreiger, treasurer of the Baltimore Orioles, said, "we had to take a stand somewhere."

Asked if the A.L. officials were not concerned that Finley might take court action as he has hinted, Kreiger replied "we can't worry about that."

Another American League official, when asked how Finley took the news, said, "He wasn't happy."

Cronin said he had no idea what Finley planned to do now.

"I hope we can get together," he added.

He praised the presentation made by the Louisville group and said he was sorry that nothing could be done for them "but we have contracts drawn up and we have to honor them."

Cronin also pointed out that Finley will have to settle his own problems with Kansas City officials and that the American League had no plans to intercede.

KC Mayor Delighted; 'City Had Been Fair'

New York (AP)—Mayor Ius Davis of Kansas City said he was delighted with the American League action Thursday that ordered Charles O. Finley to keep his Athletics in the Missouri city.

Davis said he felt "all along that the city had been fair" in its lengthy, complex negotiations over the lease of the Municipal Stadium.

He said the city authorities now will "lean over backwards" to be more than fair in the negotiations for the lease ordered by the league.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, who headed the Kentucky delegation attempting to obtain permission for a move to Louisville, issued this statement:

"We were awfully disappointed by the 9-1 vote against us. The Kentucky delegation appreciated the opportunity to present our proposal to the American League owners, despite the refusal. We still feel Louisville would be a fine location for a major league club, and for the A's. The entire delegation desires to continue our efforts to get a major league club to Louisville."

Okla. Regents Still Thinking

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Already turned down by several prospects, University of Oklahoma regents waited Thursday for replies from the remainder of more than 20 men asked if they are interested in the school's football coaching job.

So far, the only known candidate for the job is Gomer Jones, 49, long-time assistant to Bud Wilkinson, who resigned Saturday after 17 years as head coach.

Coach Darrell Royal of Texas took himself out of the running as Glenn Northcutt, chairman of the Board of Regents, confirmed that he was one of more than 20 coaches across the country to whom telegrams were sent.

Northcutt said none of the candidates was offered the coaching job, but were asked to notify the Oklahoma athletic office if they were interested.

The regents' chairman said the school's Athletic Council will screen those who reply affirmatively and submit to the regents the names of those the council wants interviewed.

The regents will talk with those approved by the council at a special meeting on the campus Sunday.

Jones has said he wants the coach's job—and he has the recommendation of Wilkinson, plus the backing of Oklahoma players and the school president, Dr. George L. Cross.

Delaying?
There was speculation that the regents were delaying appointment of a coach in an effort to force Wilkinson to announce whether he intends to remain as Oklahoma athletic director or resign that job, too, and run for the U.S. Senate.

When Wilkinson resigned as football coach, he told the regents he wanted to stay on as athletic director and at the same time said he was seriously considering seeking the Senate post.

High-Flying Wesleyan To Seek Ninth Straight Win At Washburn Tonight

... ICHABODS STARTERS AVERAGE 6-5

Coach Irv Peterson's record-breaking Nebraska Wesleyan University Plainsmen travel to Topeka today for a clash with tall Washburn University.

The Plainsmen will take an 8-game winning streak into the 7:30 p.m. contest at Whitling Field House.

The Ichabods of coach Norman Short are 6-5 for the season. Their latest victory was a 112-95 triumph Tuesday over Peru State.

Wesleyan, led by 6-5 Chet Paul who potted a season individual high point total of 35, broke a 10 year old record in chalking up 122 points against Doane Tuesday.

The combined team points of 209 also set a new Plainsmen standard which had fallen twice more previously this season.

Peterson's squad also dumped in 50 field goals for a new team record.

At Washburn, the shorter Plainsmen will face a squad that averages nearly 6-5.

All five of the Ichabods starters have scoring averages in the double figures. Center Gregg Gibb, 6-6, is hitting at a 16.7 clip a game.

Forward Jerry Williams, 6-6, is shooting 16.3 a game and 6-2 guard Kenny Hendrix is hitting at a 16 point per game clip. The other forward, 6-7 Ron Ford is averaging 10.5 a game and 6-3 guard Gordon Hibbard is averaging 13.7.

Washburn is scoring at an 86 point per game clip through 13 contests while their opponents are hitting at 85.

Nebraska Wesleyan pushed its team scoring average up two points to 91.9 for thirteen games. Their opponents are scoring at a 75.8 pace.

The Plainsmen are 12-1 for the season.

FINLEY ... waves spurned contract.

High-Flying Wesleyan To Seek Ninth Straight Win At Washburn Tonight

... ICHABODS STARTERS AVERAGE 6-5

Coach Irv Peterson's record-breaking Nebraska Wesleyan University Plainsmen travel to Topeka today for a clash with tall Washburn University.

The Plainsmen will take an 8-game winning streak into the 7:30 p.m. contest at Whitling Field House.

The Ichabods of coach Norman Short are 6-5 for the season. Their latest victory was a 112-95 triumph Tuesday over Peru State.

Wesleyan, led by 6-5 Chet Paul who potted a season individual high point total of 35, broke a 10 year old record in chalking up 122 points against Doane Tuesday.

The combined team points of 209 also set a new Plainsmen standard which had fallen twice more previously this season.

Peterson's squad also dumped in 50 field goals for a new team record.

At Washburn, the shorter Plainsmen will face a squad that averages nearly 6-5.

All five of the Ichabods starters have scoring averages in the double figures. Center Gregg Gibb, 6-6, is hitting at a 16.7 clip a game.

Forward Jerry Williams, 6-6, is shooting 16.3 a game and 6-2 guard Kenny Hendrix is hitting at a 16 point per game clip. The other forward, 6-7 Ron Ford is averaging 10.5 a game and 6-3 guard Gordon Hibbard is averaging 13.7.

Washburn is scoring at an 86 point per game clip through 13 contests while their opponents are hitting at 85.

Nebraska Wesleyan pushed its team scoring average up two points to 91.9 for thirteen games. Their opponents are scoring at a 75.8 pace.

Sir Alec And Erhard Agree

... ON DEALING WITH REDS

London (AP)—Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Ludwig Erhard Thursday resolved to work for bit-by-bit settlements with the Soviet Union leading to a Berlin settlement and reunification of divided Germany. But they stressed this must be based on the right of all Germans to self-determination.

The British prime minister and West German chancellor ended a two-day meeting clearly satisfied they had dispelled many of the shadows of mistrust that had darkened British-German relations during Konrad Adenauer's era.

"The talks were held in a most cordial atmosphere," said a communiqué.

And Erhard commented to newsmen: "That visit has been a success."

New Proposals
The rotund chancellor reported also that allied experts in Washington already are working on new proposals looking toward German reunification.

Elaborating on this remark, other informed diplomats said:

An American-British-French-West German ambassadorial group in Washington is studying ways of reviving and updating a far-reaching Western plan for insuring the peace of troubled old Europe. Once called the "Western peace plan," it would set up a continental security system from the Urals to the Atlantic. As originally conceived the scheme outlined a program for reunifying Germany.

Guarantees
At the same time if offered guarantees for any state which might become the innocent victim of aggression. This was intended to allay the fears of those countries which in the past have been attacked by a rampant Germany.

The Soviets rejected the whole thing in 1959, but a modernized version, taking account of some Russian objections, might possibly be considered worthwhile by the West.

Sir Alec and Erhard had entered the talks already convinced—as are President Johnson and other allied leaders—that the West must continue to probe Moscow's readiness for meaningful agreements.

Suspicion
A few months ago this was an issue of dark suspicion between London and Bonn as Adenauer rated the British as the softest and weakest of his allies. In his view the British were too eager to negotiate with Moscow.

Erhard was at pains to shun any such belief Thursday.

"We are grateful to Great Britain for her attitude on Berlin, the over-all German question and on self-determination for the German people," he told newsmen. "Britain always has been loyal to the alliance and to her commitments."

LUDWIG ERHARD

Accordingly, the two men dwelt on the tactics the allies should follow in the quest for accords with the Russians in the fields of disarmament, economic affairs and political matters. Their conclusions were summarized in the communiqué thus:

"... the Western Alliance must continue the search for methods of relaxing international tension and of achieving further East-West agreements."

Importance
"(They agreed) on the cardinal importance of working for a solution to the Berlin and German problems."

"They recognized that the division of Germany was a central cause of tension."

"They expressed once more

SIR ALEC DOUGLAS-HOME

their conviction that German reunification and the final solution of the Berlin question can be achieved only on the basis of the right of self-determination of the German people."

Three Young Farmers Groups Honored By Ak

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Ak-Sar-Ben awards for $100 each went to three chapters of the Nebraska Young Farmers Association here Thursday night in recognition for community service.

The chapters and their advisors: Fairbury, Harold Vance; Holbrook, Bill Siminose; Schuyler, Ed Henderson.

Individual Knobel dual awards of $100 were given Ralph Knobel Jr. of Fairbury, the livestock proficiency award winner and to Roger Schroeder of Holbrook, crop proficiency award winner.

The 30-year-old Knobel is a former president of the State Future Farmers of America, and a former American Farmer winner. He operates 360 acres of land, feeds nearly 400 head of cattle and 300 hogs yearly.

Schroeder won his award with an average crop income of $24.32 per acre. He operates a 400-acre farm in partnership.

The young farmers group is made up of persons between 18 and 35 enrolled in vocational agricultural classes.

At opening sessions of a two-day conference here Thursday the group studied plans now being used in Minnesota by community committees to aid young farmers in securing farms and in problems of finance.

A panel session on "tips for young farmers who plan to buy feeder beef" was presented by Roger Orr of Fremont, Hugh MacTier of Omaha, L. V. Peterson of York, and Don Olson of Waverly.

Olson told the group, "Either you make a good buy on feeder cattle or you will probably say goodbye to the cattle business."

Hugh MacTier, representing the Omaha Livestock Exchange, said, "Any time anyone makes a prediction in the cattle business it is a calculated guess, but if we continue to produce as much feed with a large cattle business it will be hard to expect cattle prices to go any higher."

Marvin Schultis of Fairbury, president of the Young Farmer group, presided at the general sessions.

Sears Foundation hosted the Young Farmers group at a banquet at the Nebraska Center.

Tailgate Jazzmen Mourning Loss Of One Of Their Own

New Orleans (AP)—The tailgate jazzmen in this birthplace of Dixieland mourned Thursday the death of Jack Teagarden, one of their own who went modern but never lost the old New Orleans touch.

The legendary trombonist, singer and band leader was found dead in his motel room Wednesday. He was 58.

Teagarden had been appearing as the headliner in a six-man band at a club on Bourbon Street in the French Quarter—the place where he, and dozens of other famed music men, found the unique beat they call jazz.

The coroner's office said he died of bronchial pneumonia. Oldtime New Orleans jazzmen, who've done almost all their playing through the lean years and the fat ones without leaving home, looked on Teagarden as one of the greatest—but one who left and picked up a few modern wrinkles. He wasn't pure tailgate anymore, they said. He combined it with a bit of swing and set a new pace others have tried to follow.

"He was one of the best of the tailgaters, but he got away from it," said Emmanuel Sayles, a banjo man. "Jack was one of the great."

Punch Miller, a trumpeter, put it this way:

"He made our style. He played our style. He started getting around—New York, California, you know—and heard a lot of outsiders. He picked up the more modern style. But he could still tailgate. Lord, he was a good man."

Jim Robinson, a trombonist who once played with Teagarden on the West Coast, said, "Jack still played tailgate, but he played it modern. He was one of the best in the world. Man, he could play."

Louis Armstrong once said:

"When I first heard him play, I got goose pimples."

The Teagarden trombone they talk about had the full range of human emotion—the real meaning of jazz. One jazz lover explained it this way: Sometimes lazy and lyrical, sometimes brash and brassy. Another said he played a trombone with the facility of a trumpet—in a style all his own.

And what's the difference between tailgate jazz and the modern stuff that evolved in Teagarden's 40-year career?

Jazzmen explain the difference with a lot of diddy-oh-ahs and diddy-dits. It's got to be heard to be understood. One said: "Tailgate is rougher than modern. The modern has more notes and more swing." Another simply said: "Tailgate doesn't mean the same thing to any two people."

Tailgate got its name from the trucks that used to carry jazz bands around New Orleans in the old days. A couple of musicians inevitably sat in the tailgate, one the trombonist, for these park-and-play concerts.

There was more to Teagarden than the trombone. He was regarded by many as the finest of his race—white—as a blues singer.

CASTRO, KHRUSHCHEV MEET IN THE COUNTRY

Moscow (UPI)—Visiting Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev have retired to the country to continue their questions, the Soviet news agency Tass said Thursday.

"Fidel Castro and his party are having a good rest and show much interest in the picturesque winter landscapes near Moscow," Tass reported.

The news agency gave no report of the substance of their talks but noted that Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, one of the nation's top trade experts, attended as well as Soviet ambassador to Cuba Alexander Alexeyev.

The presence of Mikoyan, who went to Havana during the 1962 Cuba crisis as a trouble-shooter, added to speculation that Castro and Khrushchev have been talking about trade and aid.

But Western observers also pointed out that Mikoyan has been associated intimately in the Kremlin's handling of Cuban affairs and may be attending in the capacity of a general adviser.

Knowledgeable Western diplomats here believed Castro is seeking increased Soviet commitments, exceeding the present $1 million a day, particularly in view of the destruction caused by Hurricane Flora and one of the worst sugar harvests in years.

In the face of the fiercest competition from the auto giants, Rambler has increased its number of owners six-fold in six years. During this period, 13 new lines of cars were introduced to challenge Rambler. Today Rambler outsells every one of them.

With record-shattering sales year after year—an all-time high of 441,508 in 1963—and owners now numbering over 2.3 million—Rambler is the fastest-growing car builder in America.

It will pay you to ask yourself why.

What's behind this spectacular success and growth? Is it because Rambler is economical to buy, own and operate—with consistently high resale value?

Is it because Rambler offers better interior room than many bulkier cars?

Is it because all Ramblers have trim exterior sizes for easy handling in today's crowded streets, freeways and parking facilities?

Or is it because Ramblers are built a new and better way with scores of built-in extra-value features?

Any of these would be excellent answers for Rambler's popularity and rapid growth. But behind them all is an underlying and more basic reason for Rambler's success:

That reason is the attitude of American Motors toward its customers.

There is a determination on the part of Rambler's management, field organization and dealers alike to deliver complete satisfaction to every Rambler buyer.

Here is Rambler's philosophy: "We are a company that pledges itself to base its product design directly and specifically on true consumer needs. We respect the judgment of the consumer, and have one primary goal—to make ourselves known as the industry's Number One ally of the consumer."

This attitude and concern for the car buyer is reflected on the production line by workers. They are stockholders in the company, thanks to American Motors' unique progress-sharing plan. Their objective is: "Build every Rambler as though you were going to own it yourself."

Isn't this the kind of organization you'd like to do business with? One that is interested in making sure you are completely satisfied with your purchase? One that is dedicated to making cars with more usefulness to the user?

Success in satisfying customers has put Rambler solidly among the big sellers. It has... —made Rambler No. 1 in compact-car sales.

—made Rambler the best-selling 6-cylinder station wagon.

—prompted a $200,000,000 expansion, modernization and product program, just completed. —made American Motors one of the nation's largest industrial corporations, with annual sales of over $1 billion.

Cairo (AP) — Arab leaders have adopted a plan to punish Israel for its Jordan River water diversion project. They also polished a proposed strengthened military stand toward the Jewish state.

Rocky Hits Goldy For Lack Of Understanding

Keene, N. H. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater was described by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Thursday as "a southern leader" with a limited understanding of race prejudice as a factor in poverty and high relief costs.

The New York governor and the Arizona senator are rivals for the Republican nomination for president. Both are entered in the New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary, March 10.

Campaigning on a sunny, crisp winter day, Rockefeller concentrated his fire on Goldwater's views on social welfare. He referred to the prepared text of a Goldwater speech in New York Wednesday night in which the senator was quoted as saying:

"The idea that poverty and unemployment are caused by a lack of education is like saying people have big feet because they wear big shoes."

Goldwater did not deliver that portion of his speech.

Rockefeller said that "what senator Goldwater doesn't understand is that a lot of people who are without jobs are not stupid or indolent but have been denied economic and educational opportunities."

In talks before school groups in Keene, Rockefeller said the lack of education and the lack of economic opportunity are the basic causes of poverty and high relief rolls.

He referred specifically to minority groups, like southern Negroes who migrate to northern cities and land on the relief roles because they have no education and no saleable skills.

"The south has not furnished economic and educational opportunities to its largest minority group," Rockefeller said.

"Some southern leaders including Senator Goldwater are restricted by a lack of understanding."

Rockefeller's comments came during a brief debate with a Keene State College student at a reception in a restaurant.

were in session, going over the final statement point by point. The fact that they were meeting so late hinted a tough bargaining and possible dissension in a meeting remarkable for its outward display of unity among perennially feuding chiefs.

But there also were new indications of efforts toward smoothing Arab differences. Sources said the conference discussed sending a mission to Saudi Arabia to attempt to mediate the bitter dispute with Yemen in which the Saudis have supported the Yemeni royalists against the Nasser-supported revolutionary regime.

One Secret

The first three points of the final resolution will be made public later, the spokesman said, but the fourth point, dealing with military matters, will be kept secret.

The resolution, which was drafted by the 13 foreign ministers, will brand Israel as "a colonial phenomenon" which it will say has all the attributes of a colonial power, aggressiveness, discrimination, both ethnic and religious, and economic exploitation of land belonging to other people.

The resolution will develop the Arab position on the issue — the Jordan waters — on which the conference was called and will define the Arab attitude on other international problems.

All Potentials

The Arab water program is aimed at developing all the potentials of the Jordan River available to Arab states, the spokesman said. This could mean the diversion of the Hasbani and Danias rivers which feed into the Jordan River and the Sea of Galilee. Galilee is vital to Israel's economy.

The spokesman said it would be a "positive project" in which no water would be allowed to go to waste. This meant evidently that the Arabs wanted to avoid a purely vengeful project such as a suggestion that the river be diverted to empty into the Mediterranean.

The spokesman said a committee would be set up as part of the Arab League to carry out the resolution. He said a certain part of the Jordan water which cannot be diverted would be left to Israel.

Shares Agreed

Financial shares in the Arab water project have been agreed, based on technical and financial studies, the spokesman said.

Some Arab leaders will be leaving immediately after the Friday morning meeting.

The Arab leaders had already voted to set up a joint military command in an effort to head off Israel's diversion of the Jordan. They had also voted to establish military and economic committees and a permanent headquarters for the unified command. A site had not been announced.

Shastri Regaining Standing

New Delhi, India (AP) — A little statesman who lost the home ministry in a cabinet shakeup last fall seemed to be regaining standing Thursday as the most likely successor to ailing Prime Minister Nehru.

He is Lal Bahadur Shastri, 59, a slim five-footer who was highly regarded as prime ministerial timber before Nehru dropped him from the government.

A mild-mannered disciple of Mohandas K. Gandhi, Shastri had made a reputation within the Ruling Congress Party and the cabinet as a self-effacing mediator of differences between right and left wings.

Thursday he called at the home of Nehru, who has begun to see signs of public pressure for him to relinquish permanently many of his duties. There was no immediate report of what happened, but just the fact Shastri was admitted seemed significant.

Earlier in the week Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira

LAL BAHADUR SHASTRI

Gandhi, kept Shastri from seeing the prime minister as part of her effort to shield him from politics and protect him from excitement.

Now Indian newspapers are speaking for the first time of a growing feeling in the Congress Party that Nehru, 74 and sick since he was stricken 10 days ago by fatigue and high blood pressure, should make clear arrangements for the government to be carried on without him.

Recuperating in the sun, Nehru reads newspapers.

Published reports centered on the possibility of Shastri returning to the cabinet as leader of the Congress Party in parliament. This would be a key job, clearly marking Shastri as the most likely successor to Nehru.

In a front page story, the Statesman said Congress Party leaders have sent messages to Nehru urging him to lighten his load. The Hindustan Times made a similar suggestion.

Reliable sources said President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, moving to establish clear lines of authority, talked privately with Shastri Wednesday. The president saw Nehru for 10 minutes Monday, but that is believed to have been a social call.

Under vague provisions of India's constitution, Radhakrishnan could himself assume much of the governmental power. But the president, a 75-year-old scholar and philosopher, seemed to be looking for a solution better fitting into the nation's political system.

The most optimistic medical opinion is that Nehru may, in a month or two, be able to resume work for four hours a day. Other opinion is that he will never again be able to run the government.

$75, Cigars Are Taken In Steak House Theft

Police Thursday were looking for someone who broke into Jack's Steak House, 620 West O, and stole $75 and a $3 box of cigars.

Police said the intruder broke a pane of window glass and crawled into the building. The intruder pried open a cash register and took the money.

New Strikes Stir Strife For Brazil

Rio de Janeiro (AP)—New strikes — including unprecedented walkouts by federal employees — swept the country Thursday in Brazil's deepening economic-political crisis. A public utilities cut-off left Rio in chaos.

Army troops were sent to the backward northeast after 12 were killed in a gun battle when laborers tried to take over a mill.

Marines guarded the navy ministry after all its civilian employees walked out demanding higher pay. Inflation sent Brazil's cost of living up about 90% last year.

Workers in the government agency also struck, virtually isolating many cities. Telephone service does not reach many parts of the interior.

Troops also took up positions around Rio's gas, light and power, telephone and streetcar companies as a strike of public utilities workers went through its second day with no sign of settlement.

Longshoremen and workers in several other important sectors of Brazil's chaotic economy have been on strike for weeks. More pay is the common demand. President Joao Goulart has said the country is on the brink of bankruptcy.

With gas service suspended and electricity off over much of the city, thousands of Rio's 3.5 million residents ate cold food by candlelight. Supplies of kerosene and alcohol for home cooking and lighting were all but exhausted. Restaurants served cold plates and sandwiches. Many closed.

Hospitals turned to emergency reserves of bottled gas for sterilizing surgical instruments. One hospital prepared hot meals for its patients over an open fire in the hospital courtyard.

Suit Against Papers Alleges Money Owed

Richard Chapin filed suit against the Sun Newspapers of Lincoln in Lancaster District Court Thursday for the collection of money allegedly due him by the newspaper firm.

Chapin alleges that a promissory note was delivered on April 19, 1963, in which the firm agreed to pay the plaintiff $9,375, 230 days after the date of execution at the rate of six per cent interest and none has been paid to date.

$190,000 In City Park Improvements Advised

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The City Park Advisory Board recommended Thursday some $190,000 worth of park improvements for the 1964-65 fiscal year.

The six-year capital improvements project estimated needs of $580,000 for the following five years.

The proposed program goes next to the budget committee and Mayor Dean Petersen for review before final submission to the City Council during the 1964 budget session.

Major expenditures are proposed in the city's three newest parks — Holmes, Seacrest and Woods. However, a dozen other parks will benefit — including Pioneers, with $27,000 earmarked for paving the road to the animal pens.

In a discussion with Lincoln public school representatives, the board recommended the city participate in half of the cost of a two-lane asphalt access road to jointly serve Seacrest Park and proposed East Lincoln High School and Seacrest Field.

School representatives said school traffic requires a concrete surface and a four-lane width, but the board recommended no contribution toward school traffic requirements.

The city share of an asphalt-road facility was estimated at $14,000. A higher-type facility proposed for school and stadium traffic was estimated at $66,000.

The park board also recommended a 50-50 split on the cost of an estimated $23,000 tennis court facility jointly serving the park and school, but this would not be needed for two years.

School representatives said the new 2,000-student junior and senior high school is projected for bid letting in early November on a site north of Seacrest Field and the park area.

The recommended 1964-65 capital improvement program:

- Seacrest Park—$14,000 approximately for roads, $10,000 landscaping, $10,000 park—plantings, $6,000; restrooms, $11,500; roads and parking lot, $22,500.
- Woods Park—equipment storage, $15,500.
- Woods Park—restrooms, $9,000; parking lot on J, $15,000; walks, $4,000; plantings, $5,000; swimming pool service drive, $2,500.
- Inland Park—restrooms, $8,500.
- Pioneer Park—nature center building, $1,000; paved road to animal pens, $27,000.
- Cooper Park—sidewalks, $6,500.
- University Place Park—paved pool parking lot, $14,000; plantings, $3,000; Van Door Park—water and lights, $3,000.
- Interstate 180 Park—plantings, $2,000; fencing, $2,000, and water, $9,000.
- Northeast Park—shelter, $3,000.
- Taylor Park—linear 6th and 7th, $2,000; playground, $2,000; landscape, $1,500.
- 8th and O Park—fence, $1,500; landscape, $1,000; drainage, $2,000; playground development, $1,500.

Safety Director Emmett Junge reported construction of the $239,000 Woods Memorial Swimming Pool is well ahead of schedule and could be completed before the May 1 completion date.

Cardinal Joseph Ritter To Visit Lincoln Diocese

Cardinal Joseph Ritter, Archbishop of St. Louis and one of five U.S. cardinals, will become the first cardinal to visit the Lincoln Diocese in its 77-year history when he arrives here May 24 to dedicate the new Marian Center.

Cardinal Ritter has been a bishop since 1933 and a cardinal for three years. He has been Archbishop of St. Louis since 1946.

He was one of the first churchmen in the U.S. to speak in defense of the Negro, and has integrated all Catholic schools in St. Louis since his arrival there.

Recently Cardinal Ritter became an acknowledged leader among the bishops at the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The Marian Center is a landscaped park northeast of Lincoln where three new

First-Plymouth Church Adopts Record Budget Of $111,855

Members of the First-Plymouth Congregational Church (United Church of Christ) adopted a record budget of $111,855 for 1964 at their annual meeting, pastor Dr. J. Forsyth reported.

It was reported that $17,885 was used by benevolence and mission programs last year. A total of $91,000 has been raised toward the church's pledge goal of $99,000. This includes $20,000 for benevolence and mission use.

Membership showed a net increase of 34 for 1963, according to Dr. Forsyth. Increased activity was reported in the study group program.

1st Phase Finished

Completion of the first phase of a capital improvement program was reported by Robert Dobson, chairman of the capital improvements committee.

The improvement program included remodeling of the gymnasium, purchasing of property in the church block, building of two church school classrooms and a new recreation room, and the releasing of additional rooms for the church school.

Warren Johnson was re-elected moderator and Gene Tallman was re-elected assistant moderator. Mrs. Dorothy Stahn was elected clerk and Richard Stahn was elected treasurer.

Other officers elected were:

- Deacons: Dr. Norman Carlson, Byron Darrington, George Ernst, Ralph Noll, James J. Aggr, Bernice Anderson, Marcie Wilson.
- Trustees: George Abel, Charles Bartlett, John R. Dutzon, Frank E. Muschel, Richard Wadlow, Ray R. Wilson, Ed Schwartzkopf.
- Benevolence: Mrs. Richard Stabcock, Mrs. Harold Delman, Mrs. Clarence Elliott, Mrs. Kenneth Rose, Miss Lona Trott, Mrs. Ida Tyson.
- Christian Education Board: Mrs. Mary Commers, Mrs. James Feris, Raymond C. Johnson, Mrs. Lee Liggell, Sewardships and Benevolence Board.

Malaysians Arrest 17 Suspected Terrorists

Kuching, Malaysia (AP)—Malaysian security forces have arrested 17 suspected terrorists, including seven Indonesians, aboard a fishing boat in an inlet in Sarawak state's south-central region, a government spokesman said Thursday. The others were nine Chinese and one Malay.

Indonesia is accused of supporting terrorist attacks on the Malaysian states of Sarawak and Sabah in the Indonesian campaign to wreck the federation.

Lack Of Change Didn't Stop Him

Richmond, Ky. (AP)—Police are seeking an intruder who apparently had enough money but not enough of it in small change.

He broke into a downtown auto firm, used the office telephone, then taped a $1 bill and this note to the instrument: "I'm sorry I broke the window but I had to use the phone. Here is a dollar for the glass."

There's an outdoor public telephone just a few feet from the building.

January 17 the U.S.A. gets a new little foreign car

Its name is Opel Kadett.

General Motors builds it overseas. And Buick imports it.

Opel Kadett comes four ways. Sedan. Sunroof sedan. Sports coupe. Wagon.

You get a 46 h.p. engine (54 in the coupe). It's practically noiseless.

You get seat belts. Stick shift. Four forward speeds, all synchronized.

And the regular General Motors warranty—24-months/24,000-miles.*

Know what else? The chassis doesn't require lubrication. No lube points.

Opel is priced right in there with the other little foreign cars.

Opel Kadett: the new little German car with General Motors behind it.

*New vehicle warranty—Buick Motor Division of General Motors Corporation warrants each new Opel Kadett motor vehicle and chassis including all equipment and accessories (except tires), supplied by Buick Motor Division and delivered to the original retail purchaser by an authorized Opel Kadett Dealer, to be free from defects in material and workmanship under normal use and service; Buick Motor Division's obligation under this warranty being limited to repairing or replacing at its option any part or parts thereof which shall, within twenty-four (24) months after delivery of such vehicle or chassis to the original retail purchaser or before such vehicle or chassis has been driven twenty-four thousand (24,000) miles, whichever event shall first occur, be returned to an authorized Opel Kadett Dealer at such Dealer's place of business and which examination shall disclose in Buick Motor Division's satisfaction to have been thus defective. The repair or replacement of defective parts under this warranty will be made by such Dealer without charge for parts, and if made at such Dealer's place of business, without charge for labor.

The provisions of this warranty shall not apply to any Opel Kadett motor vehicle or chassis which has been subject to misuse, negligence or accident, or which shall have been repaired or altered outside of an authorized Opel Kadett dealership in any way so as, in the judgment of Buick Motor Division, to affect adversely its performance and reliability, nor to normal maintenance service (such as engine tune up, fuel system cleaning and wheel, brake and clutch adjustments) and the replacement of service items (such as spark plugs, ignition points, filters and brake and clutch linings) made in connection with such service, nor in normal deterioration of soft trim and appearance items due to wear and exposure.

This warranty is expressly in lieu of any other warranties, expressed or implied, including any implied warranty of merchantability, or fitness for a particular purpose, and of any other obligations or liabilities, on the part of Buick Motor Division, and Buick Motor Division neither assumes nor authorizes any other person to assume for it any other liability in connection with such motor vehicle or chassis.

Perhaps you, too, have noticed the Pork-Petite sign above packages of fresh pork at Safeway. It's been put there to give special recognition to the top-quality pork that's featured by Safeway. If you've never tried Safeway's fresh pork, you may wonder what's so special about it.

Just this. Our hard-to-please buyers will accept only small-size, grain-fed pork for Safeway. This is the kind that gives you more lean meat and mouth-watering pork flavor. The kind that yields especially tender, juicy chops, roasts and spareribs. Our stores make sure you get this pork carefully prepared and glistening-fresh.

The Pork-Petite name is a merit badge for this kind of pork. It's the sleek, svelte, slim, small pork we think your family will enjoy. Try some today!

Stock Market Busy, Mixed

New York (AP)—The stock market went through another irregular session Thursday with heavy trading. Some gains and losses were wide. The market has been muddled by cross-currents all this week as trading and investment switched in and out of various issues. Little leadership was displayed in Thursday's market, except for stocks of cigar manufacturers. Cigar makers were spurred by a preliminary published article pointing out that cigars were being bought and sold in the government's health campaign almost as clean bill of health compared with cigarettes. New highs were made by General Electric at 47 1/2 and Consolidated Oil at 34 1/2. Another historic peak, after making a year's high of 100, was reached by the Dow Jones Industrial Average at 783.3. The Dow Jones Industrial Average ended the day at 783.3, up 1.5 points from 781.8. The S&P 500 index was up 1.5 points to 125.15. The NYSE volume was 11,500,000 shares. The market was characterized by a lack of leadership, with gains and losses being wide. # Trading Is Timid In Grain Market

Chicago (AP)—Timidity characterized speculative trading in the grain futures market again Thursday and prices continued generally within a narrow range in dull transactions. Except for a little firmness in soybeans early, speculators seemed inclined to leave the market to a rather light commercial trade. Brokers said there simply were no influences of sufficient force to interest speculators in trades of more than small quantities. Soybeans in grain prices hardly reached beyond the minimum fractional range. Wheat finished a cent higher, at 1.25 1/2. Corn was up 1/4 cent to 1.25 1/2. Soybeans were up 1/4 cent to 1.25 1/2. # E. K. Yanney New Normal Board Head

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Lodgepole banker E. K. Yanney Thursday was elected president of the State Normal Board for 1964 to succeed Henry I. Freed of Chadron.

Bernard Spencer of Nebraska City was elected vice president, and E. Albin Larson was re-elected secretary.

Immediately following election of its officers the board authorized Yanney to reorganize its committee system for this year.

He merged the Buildings and Grounds, and Finance committees into one unit, combined the Personnel and Instructional Services committee into a single group, eliminated the Legislative Committee since the Legislature is not in regular session this year, and created a new group—the Research and Development Committee.

Most board members indicated they hoped more issues would be brought first before the full board for discussion, then assigned to committees for study, rather than waiting for committee reports before giving initial consideration to important matters.

Dr. Ed Nelson of the Chadron State College staff brought to the board's attention the interest shown by the community of Chadron in having a state trade school established there in conjunction with the college.

Board Member Carl Spelts of Kearney suggested the board should give careful study to any proposals to "tie-in" trade schools with the normal colleges.

He wondered if the colleges would be "getting out of our area" by having a trade school, and whether their academic programs would be hurt by taking on a two-year terminal program of trade schools.

Normal Board Executive Coordinator Dr. Freeman Decker suggested the interest in many communities have shown in having a state trade school in their areas might be "a lot of wishful thinking" which would be changed when they became aware of the high cost of establishing such a facility.

Convinced of Tie-In Need

He said he was "convinced" that such facilities will have to be tied in with existing colleges or other school facilities because of the expense involved.

The matter was turned over to the Personnel-Instructional Services Committee for further study.

On another matter, several board members let it be known they believe the Legislative Council Study Committee on Higher Education should have shown more "courtesy" to the Normal Board and the four state college presidents in plans for setting up a joint meeting next week.

Sen. Marvin Stromer of Lincoln, committee chairman, advised Decker early this week of the meeting scheduled Jan. 23-24 at Kearney, and Decker relayed the information to the group Thursday.

Several board members said they would be unable to attend because the late notice did not allow them time to rearrange their personal schedules.

The legislative committee is studying the possibility of recommending legislation to establish a single board for all public institutions of higher education in the state.

It met in executive session with the University of Nebraska Board of Regents on the matter in mid-December.

Damages Asked For Fall Injury

Omaha (AP)—Arthur C. Stand, 22, who alleges he was permanently paralyzed as the result of a 40 foot fall in a Big Springs grain elevator, has filed a $765,490 suit in Federal District Court.

Stand, who now lives in California, said he was employed by Wilmar Construction Co. at the time of the October, 1960, accident.

Named as defendants in the suit are the Farmers Co-operative Elevator Association, non-stock of Big Springs and the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co.

Decision On Kearney College 'Shell' Up To Unicam Council

It appeared Thursday that the executive board of the Legislative Council will have to make the ultimate decision on how Kearney State College can proceed with construction of its proposed $15 million science building.

The State Normal Board received a letter from the attorney general advising that there was "no legal basis" for making a determination on whether the shell of a structure would constitute the first unit of a building.

The board had made the query because of confusion resulting from the Legislature's appropriating $500,000 for the first unit of the Kearney science building.

Much More Costly

If this meant building one self-contained small unit, board members have been advised it would be a much more costly route to follow than constructing the outside shell of the proposed total building.

The attorney general suggested the board should ask the governor for approval to build the shell, adding that the governor probably would have to take the matter to the executive board of the Legislative Council for final determination.

All members of the executive board — Sens. Harold Stryker of Rising City, chairman; George Gerdes of Alliance, Don Thompson of McCook, and William Moulton of Omaha — also are members of the Legislature's 1963 Budget Committee which made the original recommendation to appropriate $500,000 for a first unit.

On another controversial matter, Dr. Decker advised the board he has not received a requested opinion from the attorney general on what the board should do about instituting its new retirement system for the normal colleges.

Decker said he did not anticipate he would receive an opinion on the matter for some time since the attorney general is reluctant to advise on matters pending before the courts as is the case with the new state retirement system.

The controversy revolves around the question of whether the Normal Board should place its people under the newly authorized retirement system for the Normal colleges, or whether they must go under the state retirement system.
